Gang Again Gets Safe At Alberni

Second Successful Raid On Coach Lines Within Month

For the second time in a little over a month, a gang of thieves swooped down on the Vancouver Island Coach Lines depot in Port Alberni during the night and made off with the heavy safe containing a large amount of money.

R.C.M.P. officers recovered the safe today. It had been blown open with nitroglycerine.

Police would not say how much money was in the strongbox but indicated it contained a substantial amount.

For reasons of investigation, they would not say where the safe was found.

In the earlier raid, thieves got $2,000. The safe was recovered.

IDENTICAL JOBS

The robberies are so identical police believe both were done by the same gang.

Police today were following up several clues.

The depot was entered by smashing the front door and the 600-pound safe carried out probably to a waiting truck.

No one witnessed the robbery which has the earmarks of having been executed by experts.

Indian Sought On Murder Charge Surrenders

To Appear In Zeballos Court

Martin Saxey, 35-year-old Indian fisherman, will appear in Zeballos police court on a charge of murdering Oscar Lewis, also an Indian, at Kyuquot last Wednesday.

Saxey is in the custody of R.C.M.P. officers aboard the Federal Fisheries boat Howay en route to Zeballos.

Object of an extensive land, sea and air hunt for several days, Saxey surrendered to Postmaster A. Borthwick at the Vancouver Island north-west fishing village where the slaying occurred.

The Howay left Kyuquot this morning for Zeballos.

R.C.M.P. headquarters here said Saxey will appear before Stipendiary Magistrate H. M. B. Sutton on a charge of shooting Lewis.

Saxey is reported to have hit for the woods with a rifle after Lewis' bullet-riddled body was found by villagers.

Scolded Girl Suicides From 100-Ft. Bridge

EDMONTON, Alta. (BUP)—A mother's scolding of her daughter for something she had not done caused the youngster to make a 100-foot death leap from Edmonton's High Level bridge Sunday night, police reported today.

Eleven-year-old Patricia Murphy, described as a sensitive child, was scolded by her mother, Mrs. Dorothy Murphy, for calling neighborhood children names.

Despondent, Patricia left her home at the American Air Base and traveled across town to the High Level bridge from which she jumped early Sunday night.

The saddened mother learned later that Patricia had not been guilty of name-calling.

Prices To Rise

WASHINGTON (AP)—Michael V. DiSalle, price director, said today he expects the general price level in the U.S. to go up another "5 or 6 per cent, or even more" before some degree of stability is achieved, probably about mid-summer.

Canadian Troops In Korea Become Wary Of 'Liquor'

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA (CP)—A Korean native caught diluting rice liquor with urine — presumably for sale to Canadian troops—was lodged in Kiryang police station Sunday.

The Korean was one of three spotted by a private of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry just outside camp limits. Two escaped.

A Canadian company sergeant major reported: "We had the same trouble previously. Once in Pusan we had the stuff analyzed and it was revealed to be 60 per cent sake (rice liquor) and 40 per cent urine."

The beer shortage has been a growing complaint among Canadian troops.

Capt. Andy Foulds of Vancouver learned it would cost $4 a bottle to ship beer to Korea from Vancouver.

U.S. May Ease Up Price Controls

WASHINGTON (UP) — The government got set to punch a few more holes through its price ceilings today, amid increasing labor pressure for a corresponding break in the wage freeze.

Orders exempting cotton ginners from direct price controls and setting fixed ceilings on coffee, cocoa, soybeans and other commodities awaited only the go-ahead from Price Controller Michael V. Disalle.

The cotton order probably means higher cotton prices. The effect of the fixed ceilings on the others was uncertain.

Car Theft Epidemic

VANCOUVER, (BUP) — Vancouver police today reported the worst outbreak of car thievery in recent years. No less than 27 cars were stolen in Vancouver over the week-end.

1,800 MORE MEN SOUGHT FOR ARMY TRAINING HERE

Within six months, 1,800 Active Army anti-aircraft recruits will be in training in this area, it was learned today from Work Point officials.

Flow of recruits was cut off late last month until accommodation could be provided. This included reconversion of Gordon Head Camp. Now 1,000 additional recruits will be handled by the Royal Canadian Artillery School for training.

The army has issued orders recruits must be trained and qualified as ack-ack gunners within 18 months.

The same sources revealed a major building program is scheduled for Work Point, with the large old brick barrack block on Peter Street to be replaced by a modern two-story structure.

REDS DRIVE WEDGE INTO ALLIED LINE

100,000 Chinese, North Koreans Use Guile, Power To Create Dangerous 7-Mile Bulge

TOKYO (Tuesday) (AP)—Combining 100,000-man power with fake surrenders, white flags and handshakes, Chinese and North Korean Communists thrust a wedge seven dangerous miles deep into the Allied central Korean front Monday, isolating some American and South Korean units.

On the east coast, latest American reports said a patrol of the South Korean Capital Division, advancing northward, ran into a Red company almost on the 38th parallel and was forced back south after a fight less than a mile below the old political boundary.

Earlier South Korean official reports had credited the South Korean patrol with a five-mile penetration into North Korea. The American advisers' report early Tuesday to Eighth Army headquarters said they never crossed the line at all.

The savage Red counter-drive in the mountainous central sector was launched Sunday midnight and pushed by an estimated 60,000 troops throughout today on a 10-mile-wide front.

TWO UNITS CUT OFF

Two U.S. units of undisclosed size were reported cut off north of Hoengsong. They were fighting to crack enemy road blocks that extended two miles along the road south of them. An American relief force was battling up from the south. A South Korean regiment also was reported cut off northeast of Hoengsong.

That town is 55 air miles east of Seoul, Red-held former Korean capital.

United Nations troops were massed south of Seoul, just across the Han River from the capital. But a South Korean patrol that had made another probe into Seoul was forced out again by sharp enemy fire.

Shortly before midnight Monday, Korea time, Reds charged South across the ice-clogged Han River and attacked U.S. 25th Division elements in Seoul's industrial suburb, Youngdungpo. AP Correspondent William C. Barnard reported from that town that the attack was beaten back in about 15 minutes.

USE RUSSIAN GUNS

At the same time Red artillery subjected the Allies south of the Han to heavy fire from 120-mm. guns, presumably Russian-made.

The critical position, however, was on the central front.

At one point on the central front, an American patrol reported Chinese who spoke English came up with white flags, shook hands as if offering to surrender, then cut loose with hand grenades.

American officers were striving desperately to rally the South Koreans.

Field dispatches said the situation was confused and serious.

Attlee Wants Parley Before 38th Crossed

Hoping For Far East Peace By Negotiation

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Attlee told Parliament today General MacArthur should refrain from sending troops across Korea's 38th parallel until there has been "full consultation with the United Nations."

Such consultation should be held particularly "with those member states who are contributing forces to Korea," the Prime Minister said in a foreign affairs debatee in the House of Commons.

"We must remember the 38th Parallel is in no sense a military line," the Prime Minister said. "There is no greater mistake than in thinking that a political line or even, sometimes, a physical line is a military line.

"We are hoping that we may get negotiations leading up to a settlement in the Far East," Attlee said.

Following Anthony Eden, former Foreign Secretary, who advocated a western declaration of aims on the defence of Yugoslavia, Attlee said the main question facing the world today is whether the Communist bloc would reduce its armed forces to reasonable proportions and abandon "imperialist policies."

Eden said the Western Powers should announce what their stand would be if Yugoslavia were invaded.

He charged that Russia and her satellites are building up powerful forces that constituted a threat to the Yugoslavs.

Asks Grain For India

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman asked Congress to authorize sending 2,000,000 tons of grain to famine - threatened India, and to appropriate funds now for the first 1,000,000 tons.

Thousands Hit By Flu B.C. Doctors Report

In one of Chilliwack's main streets water is more than foot deep.

3 Dead, Hundreds Forced To Flee Homes As Rain-Fed Floods Freeze

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia's Fraser Valley became a vast skating pond today as freezing temperatures descended on the flood-covered land.

The province counted three flood deaths as the vast clean-up job began. Hundreds of persons had been forced to evacuate flood-damaged homes.

Volunteer sandbag crews today won their fight to save a key dike protecting 10,000 acres of reclaimed farm land near Sumas, about 50 miles east of here near the United States border.

A three-day downpour, virtually unprecedented, inundated an estimated 40 per cent of the Fraser Valley, which extends east from Vancouver for 100 miles.

The rain ended Sunday and, in some parts of the valley, it was followed by a snowfall of six inches. The weather office said the outlook is for dry weather.

The Fraser went on a rampage in 1948, causing $30,000,000 damage, but this time the mighty river's tributaries were the villains.

The number of homeless stood high in the hundreds. B.C. was still without rail communications and the Trans-Canada Highway was cut.

Water was four or five feet deep in some parts of Chilliwack, a city of 7,000 which was 58 per cent inundated.

Jack Moran, 31-year-old Chilliwack taxi-driver, described the floods this way: 'I've never seen so much water in Chilliwack, not even during the Fraser river flood in 1948. Then, the dikes held the water back. This time it came straight out of the sky."

The death toll rose to three Sunday near Abbotsford, east of Vancouver, when an automobile slipped into a ditch filled with seven feet of water.

TWO MEN DROWNED

Two men were drowned, while three other occupants swam to safety. Dead are Wilfred H. Hill, 38, of Vancouver and Remy Maurice De Fosset of Hope.

The first flood victim was Willa Foreman, 70. Her body was found floating in her flooded home at Chilliwack.

Says Toronto Lawyer Died Natural Death

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. J. E. Pritchard, Montreal brain expert, today stated that Francis J. Sullivan died of a brain haemorrhage which probably occurred spontaneously and not by the application of blunt force.

The pathology director at Montreal General Hospital gave evidence in defence of Mrs. Marion Sullivan charged with manslaughter in connection with her husband's death. The trial is in its ninth day.

Several times Chief Justice J. C. McRurer cautioned the witness to base his opinion only on evidence already before the court.

Dr. Pritchard said his experience with brain tumors indicated Mr. Sullivan, 52-year-old Toronto lawyer, might have been injured in thrashing about in convulsions before he died.

That, he said, would account for the 60 injuries found on Mr. Sullivan's body.

HOSPITAL LACK 'DANGEROUS'

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Dr. L. A. Patterson, saying persons requiring hospitalization here must wait six months, described the situation as "dangerous as an invasion." He said 1,000 in Vancouvtr should be in hospital.

Copying Comic Book Girl Hangs Herself

GRANVILLE FERRY, N.S. (CP)—Pretty 11-year-old Evelyn Halliday was found strangled Saturday, imitating a capture in a comic book at her feet.

Apparently the girl had tried to tie herself to the bedpost in her room as described in the comic book and had slipped, strangling herself.

Flooded Suburban Roads Open Tuesday If No Rain

Floodwaters inundating Saanich area farm lands and roads have begun receding on the heels of a big drop in the mercury Sunday and today.

After the break in the weather Sunday—following six days of rain—the mercury plunged to 32 overnight here and the forecast today was for continued clear, cold weather. High temperature Sunday was 43.

Sunday was no rest day for hundreds of Victorians; it was a day spent pumping out flooded basements in the low-lying areas which were hardest hit.

The weatherman reported that from last Tuesday through late Saturday 3.84 inches of rain fell on Greater Victoria.

Since Sunday police in Victoria, Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt have received no reports of flooded basements. Water in all flooded areas was receding fast, they said.

Marigold Avenue, Interurban Road and Blenkinsop Road which have been closed to traffic because of water, would be open within the next 24 hours if dry weather prevailed, Saanich police reported.

Police reported the flooding on Marigold district reached its height early Sunday morning but the rising water did little damage. The water crept over additional fields and flooded basements in a few homes, they said.

Ireland Bank Strike Ended

DUBLIN (Reuter) — Ireland's 4,000 bank clerks today ended their seven-week strike for more pay after an arbitration court had granted some of their pay demands.

But the banks, closed since Dec. 23, will not open until Thursday as arrears of work must first be cleared.

The arbitration tribunal today decided that higher pay should be given to officers with more than 16 years' service. This meant that 1,550 gained nothing.

Vast Aussie Bush Fire

BRISBANE, Australia (Reuter) —Twelve big bush fires were raging over about one-eighth of Queensland's 670,500 square miles today, scorching farmland and driving sheep before them.

Steps Urged To Prevent Epidemic

With 2,196 cases of influenza reported in the province and thousands of cases believed unreported, public co-operation was sought today to guard against the disease reaching epidemic proportions.

Health authorities said there was every possibility that the wave would spread from surrounding areas to British Columbia.

Hospitals are preparing for a possible emergency and a "no visitors" rule may be strictly applied.

Theatres report staff shortage but no drop in attendance. Many business firms throughout the city reported workers away today because of flu. Seven were absent from the Victoria Times staff.

A survey is being made throughout the school district to check on flu among staff and pupils.

Provincial Health Officer Dr. G. F. Amyot states that there is no cause for alarm; all cases are mild with no complications. There have been no deaths.

He pointed out that when public interest is aroused the number of cases reported increase considerably. Ordinarily, few of the slight cases come to the attention of the authorities.

While there appeared to be a lot of persons in Penticton stricken, there was no hint of an epidemic.

FEW PREVENTIVES

City Health Officer Dr. J. L. Gayton said that warnings would be issued with the first sign of any epidemic of the sickness. The highly contagious nature of the disease makes complete control difficult. Safety lay in keeping up the general health of the individual, avoiding crowds, and in isolating cases as soon as they are discovered.

The medical health officer feels that there is little likelihood of a repetition of world-wide devastating toll taken by influenza in 1918-19. Present-day therapy does much to prevent complications even though the disease itself must run its cource once contracted.

The current epidemic in the British Isles and eastern Canada may spread a great deal further, and summer weather cannot be relied upon to bring relief. Dr. Gayton pointed out that the World War 1 outbreak continued for 18 months without any noticeable decrease due to season.

War Writer Killed

U.S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea (AP)—Jean-Marie de Premonville, 30, war correspondent for Agence France Presse, was killed today on a patrol with U.S. rangers on the central Korean front. De Premonville fell with three machine-gun bullets in his body.

Hospital Levy Of $50; 6% Sales Tax Discussed As Possibilities For 1952

Special to The Times

VANCOUVER—Hospital insurance premiums of $45 to $50 a year—or the budgeting of $5 millions from general revenues to meet the deficit—are predicted for 1952 in a leading article in the Vancouver Sun today by its editorial director, Roy Brown.

Brown says that "the leading dilemma" of the session opening next Tuesday in Victoria will be a solution to hospital insurance's financial problems.

The issue, he contends, is simple: rates must go up, or taxpayers "must accept the idea" of a $5 million deficit being met out of general revenues. If they want this "self-liquidating project in better health and community prosperity" they must pay.

Brown adds: "There is certain to be sharp debate (in the House)."

A year ago the Legislature made an outright gift of $2.5 millions in the hope that it would carry the service over until March 31, this year.

This estimate will be $1 million short, the Sun editor declares. It will have to be reckoned in the forthcoming budget.

In the year ending March 31, 1952, there will be a new deficit, Brown states. It will be accentuated by the expense of several hundred new hospital beds "coming into production."

By April 1 next year, he feels that there will be a deficit of $4 to $5 millions.

"This would require an increase of the premium rate into the area of $45 to $50 a year for heads of families and about $35 for single persons. This is the overwhelming fact which faces the Legislature.

"The new rate would be double the starting fee of two years ago—when the balance between income and costs was sadly miscalculated.

QUIET—FOR IRAN

Shah's Wedding Lacks Traditional Splendor

By ROBERT B. HEWETT

TEHRAN (AP)—The thunder of a 21-gun salute boomed out the news of the Sha's wedding today to lovely Soraya Esfandiari, 19-year-old granddaughter of a once-rebellious Persian tribal chief.

Seated before two chief mullahs, Iran's highest religious leaders, the once-divorced Shah and his European-educated, half-German bride were wed in a simple Moslem ceremony at Marmar Palace.

On Shah's orders, traditional splendor was lacking. Flags flying over snow-covered streets and prancing lancers provided the only color as the new queen drove to the palace.

The Shah, 32-year-old Mohammed Reza Pahlevi, waited while his sisters, Princess Ashraf and Princess Chams, escorted the bride to the wedding in Shah's study.

Two small daughters of court functionaries held the long train of Soraya's silver-lame wedding gown as she mounted the staircase.

The royal newlyweds received diplomats and government officials in the hall of mirrors immediately after the ceremony.

There has been a strange lack of excitement in Tehran over the fete. Even Soraya, European-educated daughter of a Persian tribal leader and a German mother, was reported to have been unconcerned.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

DOGS AND DON'TS

SHOPPING at the Oak Bay junction the other day, I was amused at the antics of a number of dogs who were waiting outside a grocery store where their owners were evidently shopping. Some of the "pooches" were on leashes, tied to the adjacent railings; others kept vigil with their noses so close to the door that they ran the risk of losing the tips every time someone emerged.

One little Cocker spaniel pup wore such a mournful look in his soulful brown eyes that you would have thought he had not only lost his last friend but also his last bone. Another pup, who looked like the result of a misalliance between an Aberdeen terrier and a dachshund, darted about gleefully, nipping at the legs of the tied-up "tykes," then retreating just out of leash-length to bark in tantalizing fashion at the tormented ones.

SIMILAR SCENES

I SUPPOSE similar scenes are being enacted daily wherever there are food shops, because, thanks to our sanitary laws, four-legged animals are not allowed in stores or restaurants. We are so accustomed to such regulations here that we take it for granted. But their efforts to enforce similar measures in England have not been so successful. And therein lies a tail!

For the city of Manchester recently saw an experiment which, while it no doubt had its irritating side to those who tried it out, also had a ludicrous aspect which must make any dog-lover laugh—as it did me.

ANISEED TRAIL

SOMEONE in the Northern Council of Grocers' Association, which has a membership of about 50,000 grocers, had a brain-wave. His idea was to keep dogs out of food shops by laying a trail of aniseed outside the shop doors. The experiment started off as a great success. The dog-owners went into shops and the dogs, wagging their tails excitedly, stayed outside.

The "pooches" found the smell of aniseed far more tempting to doggy nostrils than that of the bacon or meat counter or of biscuit tins. Sniff, sniff, sniff went the dogs in a paroxysm of delight—so much so that the dog-owners found it hard to get them to go home after shopping was done.

STRUCK A SNAG

IN THE MEANTIME, the experimenting shopkeepers rubbed their hands in appreciation of the success of the aniseed scheme. Until the said scheme struck a big snag. Lured by the irresistible smell, other dogs in the neighborhood began to flock to the grocers' stores. Not bothering whether their owners wanted to do shopping within, tall dogs, small dogs, thin dogs, fat dogs, well-bred dogs and plain mongrels, all joyfully hit the aniseed trail. And they did it with as much joy and excitement as some human penitents hit the sawdust trail when the occasion offers.

As if summoned by a secret signal, all the dogs within a smelling radius of the aniseed bait congregated around the shop doors until an excited, snarling, yelping, fighting mass of canines blocked pavements in the vicinity of grocers' stores in Manchester and at the other three shops in Lancashire which started the experiment.

KEPT THEM OUT!

AS THE SECRETARY of the Grocers' Council told a press reporter later, the aniseed trail certainly kept the dogs out of the shops but it also disorganized business and antagonized passers-by. However, he says, the council is by no means beaten in its effort to keep dogs out of food stores, and is ready to try out various other ideas.

In the meantime, although that particular idea has gone to the dogs, I am sure that the canines concerned consider it well worthwhile. And I don't doubt that when some of them are snoozing by the home fireside or out in their kennels, the convulsive, ecstatic little sighs they give from time to time result not from dreams of a particularly succulent bone but from memories of a glorious free-for-all in a doggy heaven saturated in essence of aniseed.

Earlier at the meeting a non-confidence motion in president A. G. Lambrick and secretary C. H. Williams was defeated. The motion was presented by R. G. Parker, representing Duncan dairymen.

Dr. Gordon Shrum To Talk On Crisis

"Science and the International Crisis" will be the subject of Dr. Gordon M. Shrum at the University Extension lecture at the Victoria College-Normal School auditorium at 8.15 tonight.

His talk is expected to include a great deal of information on the development of atomic energy for both peace and war.

The department of physics at U.B.C. was the first department to grant Ph.D. degrees and much of the progress of the course was due to the scientific and administrative ability of Dr. Shrum. During the World War Dr. Shrum was the commanding officer of the C.O.T.C. at the university. He was instrumental in having one of the finest university armories built on the campus.

New Swiss Slides Kill Four Persons

Continuous Snowfall Causes Additional Avalanches In Alps

AIROLO Switzerland (AP)—At least four persons were killed and 22 others were believed buried by avalanches which crashed into two villages in southeast Switzerland last night.

Continuous snowfall in the area renewed the threat of slides in the section where 75 persons were killed by avalanches in a single week-end last month. Many villages previously hit were again being evacuated.

One avalanche early today hit Airolo, at the southern entrance of the St. Gotthard tunnel. Four bodies and five persons still alive were dug from the ruins of their homes. At least six persons were believed still buried. Little hope was held for them.

At Frasco, 20 miles north of Locarno, at least 16 persons—half the population—were buried by another slide. It isolated the hamlet, lying at the head of a narrow valley.

The Airolo disaster cut the rail line through the St. Gotthard Pass, one of the principal railroad links between Italy and Central Europe.

The slide crashed down on the village for more than 12 minutes, on a 200-yard front. A wall of snow, 30 feet high, blocked the main street of the village, hindering access to the buried victims.

Airolo was partly evacuated last week because of avalanche danger. Two days ago the danger was believed to have passed and the inhabitants were permitted to return to their homes.

Hospital Problem May Be Solved By New Duncan Group

DUNCAN — Formation of a To-Dollar Club here may solve the need for additional hospital accommodation and desirability of establishing a home or housing units for elderly citizens.

At a meeting of representatives from any community organizations and service clubs, Lindsay Loutet, member of the hospital board, proposed that the necessary funds be raised to purchase the King's Daughters' Hospital. This purchase price placed from $150,000 to $200,000 would become the down payment on a new hospital.

Miss Bertha Jenkins, matron of the hospital, and sponsor of the drive for funds through the Two-Dollar Club, said the establishment of some type of home for elderly citizens would relieve the pressure on the hospital.

It was decided to hold another meeting on March 7 when an executive will be appointed to carry on the work.

Increased School Grant

COURTENAY—The budget of School District No. 71 for 1951 was reduced by the Department of Education by about $1,000. However, grants were increased by $2,000. The budget calls for expenditure of $385,576 of which $233,598 is to be raised by direct taxation in the district.

FAIRFIELD ROAD
BEHIND THE SIGNS WITH Jim Nesbitt

Fairfield Road runs from Rupert Street, at St. Joseph's Nurses' Home to the top of Gonzales Hill, where it becomes Beach Drive.

The Fairfield Road of today, between Cook and Moss, was once a trail through the woods and fields to the buildings of the vast Fairfield Farm, which ran to the sea's edge.

In the 80's the trail became a public thoroughfare to Ross Bay Cemetery and Foul Bay Beach. Later it was a wagon road and eventually a main artery.

Fairfield Farm was owned by Sir James Douglas, Governor of British Columbia until he retired in 1864. He named his farm for Fairfield Manor House, in England's Hampshire, the birthplace of Vancouver Island's first Royal Governor, Richard Blanshard, who arrived here in 1850.

Douglas, who founded Victoria in 1843 for the Hudson's Bay Company, succeeded Blanshard in 1851 as second Governor of Vancouver Island.

Churchill Says Labor Endangers British Defence

LONDON (AP) — Winston Churchill said today Britain is in grave danger after "the costly and dilatory mishandling of our defences" during the Labor government's five years in office.

"The Socialist Party have not got the capacity to give the people the leadership needed to preserve peace through strength," he said.

Churchill made these comments in a letter to Sir Walter Monckton, Conservative candidate in a by-election in Bristol Thursday.

The special election in the strongly-Conservative district was made necessary by the recent death of Oliver Stanley, member of the Conservative high command in Parliament.

Last week, Labor Party headquarters announced Prime Minister Attlee would not send the Labor Party candidate, Harold Lawrence, the party leader's customary letter of support just before the election. Lawrence, a Pacifist, had criticized the Labor government's rearmament program.

SIOUX MASCOT DIES SUDDENLY ON DESTROYER

Susie, the pup who was a war veteran, died Saturday aboard the destroyer Sioux.

The brown-and-white canine mascot, purchased last August in Japan for 75 cents, died a few hours after being returned to the ship from a pet hospital.

The dog suffered a relapse. The excitement of returning was too much for the mascot, who saw much of the Korean sea campaign.

Susie, only nine months old, was given a seaman's burial, lowered into the waters of Esquimalt Harbor.

The Sioux returned from Korean waters last Sunday.

Deep-Freeze Woman Treated

Mrs. Dorothy Mae Stevens, 23-year-old negro woman of Chicago, who is recovering after being frozen stiff from an all-night exposure in sub-zero weather, is "holding her own today" in Chicago hospital. Mrs. Stevens has amazed medical profession by surviving thawing-out process. When found last Thursday morning her body temperature was 64 degrees and physicians said her blood had chilled to a sludge.

HOSPITAL LEVY

"It might be that the Legislature would feel happier to boost the premium to $40 and hope that the deficit against general account would be held within $2.5 million . . .

"There are a few people who believe the government might add another 3 per cent to the present sales tax to provide the $22 to $24 millions expected within the next three years as the annual budget of hospital insurance."

"ON ITS OWN FEET"

Brown, who has been a staunch advocate of the plan, while a leading critic of its finances, says that a survey of B.C. newspapers shows that the people believe "hospital insurance must stand on its own feet." He concludes:

"My own opinion is that vastly more is to be gained in cash receipts in 1951 by a quick translation in the collection method to payroll deductions. I have been hammering on this idea, but progress has been slow, because records in the Victoria head office are not altogether ready for it.

"A simple illustration will tell the story. Take a lumbering firm with 500 people on the payroll, ready and willing for a deduction system, even compulsory, which was made legal a year ago. Four hundred of their employees may have flawless records of insurance payments since 1948. Regarding many in the remaining 100 there is some question, a possible stain against their employment.

"As I understand it, the Victoria office is unable to give complete and accurate information of the ones in question or or some of them. So the whole business is held up.

"I feel sure it would be better to wipe the slate clean and sign up the firm for 100 per cent future payments on the payroll plan. That is the only sure-fire method and all the expert advice concentrates on this point."

OLDEST STEVEDORE RETIRES

Bill Horton Worked Famous Sailing Ships

The man believed to be the oldest active longshoreman on the B.C. coast has retired.

After 77 years of work, Bill Horton of Chemainus has ended a colorful waterfront career and is now enjoying a rest at his upisland home. He will be 88 next October.

Head foreman for the Empire Stevedoring Company at Chemainus for many years, Mr. Horton was steadily at work until recently when he was confined to his home with a cold.

He was born on the site of Vancouver — Gastown, it was known then—and came to the island 51 years ago. He worked for the Victoria and Vancouver Island Stevedoring Company, and joined the Empire Stevedoring Company when it was formed before the First World War.

Mr. Horton recalled that it is 30 years since sailing ships were in general use, and 10 years since he loaded his last one, a schooner bound for Suva.

SAILING SHIPS SAFER

Sailing ships were safer to load, he said. He feels the advent of steam and the use of power machinery has made stevedoring more hazardous.

Reminiscing about the early days in Chemainus, the oldster recalled that the town was nothing but trees when he first arrived—big trees.

There were just three houses—and they are still standing.

Going further back in his memory, Mr. Horton described the great fire in Vancouver in 1886. It was in June, and he was on Burrard Inlet in a racing shell practicing for the Dominion Day races at New Westminster when he and his three companions spotted the fire.

They hurried to shore and helped fight the blaze.

Mr. Horton's eldest daughter is Mrs. Fred Warren, 517 Selkirk Street. Other children are Mrs. Jim Syme, Chemainus; Mrs. A. Syme, Windsor, Ont., and Joe Horton, Chemainus.

Three other children died many years ago within 18 months of one another.

London Dockers Take Strike Recess

Will Walk Out Again Next Tuesday When Leaders Charged In Court

LONDON (AP)—Striking London dockers voted at a mass meeting today to take an eight-day "recess" and then walk out again next Tuesday.

That is the day when seven men accused of conspiring to incite illegal strikes in British seaports come before a judge in Bow Street police court.

"When the seven go into the dock, we come out of the docks," shouted Ernest Thomas, member of an unofficial committee running the strike.

After the men have had their court hearing, the 7,190 London strikers will hold "further demonstrations of a new character." The nature of the demonstrations was not specified in the resolution adopted at the meeting.

Meanwhile, a total of 9,200 more dockers stayed away from their jobs in Liverpool and 2,110 in Manchester. Those at Manchester met this morning but deferred a decision on whether to go back to work until they heard from the Londoners.

A total of 151 ships was held idle in the three ports. Another 54 were undermanned.

Two Injured In Traffic Mishaps; Damage Heavy

Two persons received minor hurts in week-end city highway accidents.

Robert Cossar, 79, 840 Johnson Street, was taken to Jubilee Hospital Saturday night suffering from a possible fractured rib.

Police said he was walking across the street at Government and Pandora when he was in collision with a car driven by Albert D. Richter, 28 Menzie Street.

Mrs. L. Flegg, 2121 Spring Road, was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital for a bruised hip. She was a passenger in a car driven by Jonathan A. Sadler, 2731 Fernwood Road, which was struck by another car which did not stop, at 4 Sunday morning at Herald and Blanshard Streets.

A license plate was left at the scene by the other car. Police said the registered owner of the car was C. & B. McLeod, 725 Pine Street. At 5.35 in the morning Bert McLeod, 725 Pine, reported to police his car had been stolen from in front of 2502 Wark Street sometime since 6 Saturday night.

CAR AND BUS HIT

Police said about $300 damage was done to a car driven by John Slusarenko, Interurban Road, when it was in collision with a B.C.E. bus in charge of Henry Schwemler, 2612 Rock Bay Avenue, Sunday night at Quadra and Johnson Streets. About $150 damage was done to the bus. No one was hurt.

Damage was classed as medium when cars driven by James E. Walker, 1222 Yates Street, and Hugh F. Gaulbourn, 22 Cambridge Street, collided at Yates and Cook Streets.

A crash at Cook Street and Pandora Avenue Sunday afternoon caused damage to three cars. Police said cars driven by Harry Parkes, 3350 Richmond Avenue, and Daniel R. Clark, 2316 Doncaster Road, were in collision, after which the Clark car struck a car owned by Ben K. Oxendale, 4257 Cedar Hill Road, which was stopped at a stop sign.

Imperials Ask For Increase In Pensions

A resolution requesting Prime Minister Attlee to increase the pensions of Imperial veterans in Canada, was endorsed by over 150 British veterans at a meeting in Britannia Branch Hall of the Canadian Legion.

Capt. H. M. Talbot-Lehmann, M.C., said Imperial pensioners are today receiving less than one-quarter, in terms of buying power, of the income with which they originally left the service.

"In many cases their pensions are their only source of livelihood," he said. "Many were suffering hardships as they had no other source of revenue."

A resolution was passed instructing the chairman to write to the British Prime Minister calling for prompt action to remedy the injustice.

Rear-Admiral B. W. Greathed, C.B., was in the chair.

Challenger Starts On Another Lap Of 3-Year Cruise

The Royal Navy's oceanographic survey ship Challenger sailed from Esquimalt today after working out of the west coast navy base since early November.

On a three-year round-the-world cruise investigating the oceans of the globe, the white-hulled vessel will proceed to Honolulu, then to Auckland, New Zealand. En route she will take soundings and carry out seismic surveys of the sea bed.

During her stay here, she made two voyages to northern waters and did similar work. In addition, observations for magnetic variations were made.

Before they sailed, men aboard H.M.S. Challenger expressed gratitude for the hospitality shown them during their stay here, especially at Christmas.

Defy Strike Ban

SYDNEY (Reuter)—Australian coal miners, defying a government ban, struck work in four states today for the second successive Monday in protest against a bonus-payment award.

Labor disputes closed all Australian ports during the week-end. A dockers' ban on overtime included week-end work and dockers and miners are protesting against recent wage awards.

The miners, defying a government ban, refuse to be bound by an arbitration award making new pay rises conditional on a full 10 days' work in two weeks.

King's Engagement To Narriman Celebrated

CAIRO (UP) — Celebrations honoring King Farouk's 31st birthday and engagement to 17-year-old commoner Narriman Sadek sent Cairo's social life to new heights of splendor today.

The King, whose engagement was announced officially Saturday, is expected to marry soon. The date has not been announced.

But the announcement of the King's intentions brought the cream of Cairo's society pouring into the luxurious Semiramis Hotel on the banks of the Nile and sent the poor classes of the city pouring into the streets in glee.

Everybody was in a holiday mood. Banks and business houses closed. Restaurants were jammed with crowds joyfully toasting the health of the monarch. Young men who attended school with the bride-to-be, daughter of a middle-class civil servant, paraded through the streets of her native Heliopolis village, singing romantic Arab songs.

Observers said Cairo's night-life never before had blazed so brilliantly.

Mose of Cairo's 2,000,000 persons converged on the centre of the city to admire the brilliant illuminations. Traffic was at a standstill. Every public building was lighted and many displayed green, white and yellow neon lights.

The Law and The Law Breakers

BY THOSE WHO DO NOT UNDERstand its history or its structure the United Nations is too lightly blamed for the troubles of these times. The United Nations is divided, wrenched and frustrated because it was not constructed to meet the present world crisis. It was constructed on the assumption—clear throughout the Charter—that the great powers would always be in agreement, that aggression, if it came at all, would come from lesser states which could be quickly disciplined. Hence the rule of unanimity and the power of individual veto among the permanent members of the Security Council.

In Korea the United Nations has encountered, in Chinese aggression, backed by Russia, the very situation which its Charter did not foresee. It does not follow that the United Nations as the agency of international law has lost its usefulness. On the contrary, given the willingness of its peaceful members to stand together, the usefulness of the United Nations is just beginning. For it is only within the United Nations that the peaceful nations can construct an agreement by which they will stand together.

The United States, the Commonwealth and probably some of the European nations could doubtless form an alliance outside the United Nations and already have constructed the North Atlantic Treaty of mutual defence, but they cannot hope to secure the adherence of nations like India which have few ties of race or history with the west.

To bring all peaceful nations together, to remove all suspicion of domination and imperialism by the great western states, a forum of discussion and a decision by vote are required. They can be supplied only through the United Nations' principles. The procedures needed to implement those principles already have been drastically changed since the founding San Francisco conference and may be changed still further by the refusal of Russia and China to obey the general will. But the last hope of the free world depends upon the maintenance of those principles—joint action by free debate and democratic decision—among those ready to observe them. If it cannot be a universal authority because great law breakers refuse to observe its laws the United Nations must be kept alive as the rallying point of the lawful, who can survive only with united strength, exercised through an accepted system.

The Farmer's Big Gamble

AFTER THE LAST WAR THE Canadian Government, fearing a depression and falling prices, agreed to sell most of Canada's wheat crop to Britain at bargain prices. It gambled on the assumption that world wheat prices, over the four years of the deal, would fall, on average, below the price which Britain agreed to pay. Britain gambled on the opposite assumption and won, to the advantage of her people.

By refusing to sell on the open market and selling cheap to Britain, the Canadian farmer lost huge sums of money which have yet to be officially calculated. The Canadian government asked Britain to compensate the farmer by the famous clause in the contract which bound Britain to "have regard to" such losses in making the final payment. Britain refused as it was perfectly entitled to do.

Now Mr. Gardiner, the Minister of Agriculture, says he has reopened the negotiations and still expects Britain to pay more for the wheat than it is legally bound to do. It will be satisfactory to the farmer and to all Canadians if Mr. Gardiner can get the money. If he cannot—which seems likely—then the farmers have no right to ask the Canadian taxpayer to pay the price of their lost gamble. It was they who got Mr. Gardiner into the wheat deal. They wanted the security of an assured price over four years and took the chance of losing money. They cannot complain if they took losses instead. It was their wheat and their deal and Mr. Gardiner was their agent.

Having misjudged the price of wheat, having abandoned the free market, as they were entitled to do, they now ask the taxpayers to pay their losses through a government grant. As the custodian of the taxpayer's purse, the government has no right to yield to this pressure. Any group like the farmers has a perfect right to gamble with its labor, its products and its profits. The government has no right to gamble with the taxpayer's money.

The People's Savings

IN FIGHTING INFLATION PRIVATE saving is as good a weapon as taxes. Anything which compels or persuades people to spend less money reduces the upward pressure on prices. Taxes compel and savings persuade. But the two weapons of taxation and savings, at a certain point, can fight against each other.

In Britain, for example, taxes are now so high that if they are raised people who customarily save money will spend it. The purchasing power drained off by the state in taxes will be counterbalanced by a reduced rate of private saving, or by the expenditure of savings already accumulated.

We haven't reached that point in Canada yet. We can still save, as we have saved prodigiously in the last ten years, if we want to. The Government has given Canadians precious little reason to save—low interest rates on Government bonds and the confiscation, by the polite inflationary method, of nearly half the value of savings already made.

Lately the Government has been advised by various economists to give positive encouragement to saving, by some reduction in the income taxes of those who save. The small loss of revenue, it is argued, would be more than counterbalanced by the reduction in inflationary pressure, which is the Government's paramount economic problem. Perhaps Mr. Abbott will take this advice in his next budget. But the surest way to encourage savings is to make certain that the value of savings is not further debased.

Extending Protection At Sea

IN THE OPINION OF EXPERIENCED marine men, Canada's air-sea rescue system covering waters off B.C. is as good as any we could have short of a Coast Guard. It is not perfect, but the organization is continually extending its efforts and the protection given to men who draw their livelihood from the sea is correspondingly increased.

As it functions now all vessels owned by the Canadian Government are linked in an organization with a special department of the R.C.A.F. to dispatch aid to any craft in distress. The arrangement has the substantial advantage of permitting calls to be made on a large number of vessels located over a wide area. It suffers from the disadvantage that some of those ships are not specifically equipped to deal with all emergencies. They are, nevertheless, of a type suitable to give quick aid.

The effectiveness of the system was demonstrated the other day when the pilot of a small single-engined plane crash-landed on a beach on the northern part of Vancouver Island. He was spotted by an R.C.A.F. amphibious Canso and the auxiliary navy tug Clifton was sent to the scene immediately to take the airman aboard.

A year ago this month the most spectacular rescue of the system's history was effected when H.M.C.S. Cayuga headed air, sea and land efforts that saved 12 of a 17-man crew from a downed U.S. B-36 on Princess Royal Island.

Under present world conditions, British Columbians will not expect further exploration of plans to establish a Coast Guard—previously declared by federal authorities to be prohibitively costly. In the absence of such a service, it is reassuring to learn how the air-sea rescue system is progressing.

Raids On The Ice Box

IN THEORY, AND BY A LONG stretch of the imagination, prices in the United States are frozen. But in the words of Dr. Edwin Nourse, former chairman of the President's Council of Economic advisers and the most respected economist in the nation, "prices have not gone into the deep-freeze locker but just into the kitchen refrigerator, where the kids come in and open the door every time they want to get a snack."

In testimony before a Congressional committee Dr. Nourse predicted that, with the present upward adjustments of wages and prices, the cost of living will move up quietly but with the "irresistible force of a glacier."

Inflation, as Dr. Nourse and 400 other eminent economists have told the Government, can be cured only if its cause—excessive purchasing power in the public's hands—is removed. But even that cure will not work, Dr. Nourse says. Price rises will still continue with a balanced national budget if the Government's price and wage ceilings are continually riddled with exemptions.

In other words, there can be no real freeze without drastic tax increases and a restriction of credit, and even the fictitious freeze already attempted is being defrosted by special concessions to various industries and labor unions. The refrigerator door is open and the kids are getting their snacks.

Loose Ends

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

IT IS PUZZLING to observe from their advertisements that many American colleges and correspondence schools guarantee to turn their students into high-priced business executives. Puzzling because, so far as I know, there is no such thing as an executive, outside the advertisements and the movies. After years of laborious research, I am able to report that the executive is just an unpleasant myth.

Hutchison

I have known men who managed large business enterprises and had three telephones on their desks and sometimes a secretary on either knee, but I never knew them to execute anybody or anything. Once, foolishly left in charge of a great institution, I tried to be an executive myself. My desk was full of telephones, dictaphones, electrical buttons and various radar devices which I never dared to touch, but my knees remained empty and in the end I wrote all my letters by longhand because the secretary (being trained, I suppose, for the mysterious work of an executive) couldn't even spell that word.

And thinking that I should make good by executing somebody I called in the janitor after the office was closed at night to try my executive skill on him, but we ended up, with our feet on the immaculate mahogany desk, drinking beer and discussing race horses. This convinced me that there is no such thing as an executive, only men with telephones (who use them to raise loans at the bank and stand off their creditors), with lush and fruity secretaries who complicate their private lives with a titanic outer look and a quivery inside, with the great North American mark of success: the stomach ulcer and the cardiac condition.

WHY ANY MAN should want to be the thing called an executive I cannot imagine. The hired hands have all the fun, doing things. The executive has nothing but an ulcer and a secretary and the three of them just sit there waiting for something to turn up, and nothing turns up but the tax collector, the sheriff and finally the undertaker. Never raise your boy to be an executive. Get him into the learned and well-paid professions. Make him a plumber or, better still, an undertaker who profitably undertakes executives at an early age.

OUR LOCAL poet laureat, Mr. Braithwaite Spinks, brought these dismal things to my mind today in a moving poem which he has permitted me to publish without charge:

The thoughts of an executive
Are always consecutive.
His mighty brain
Gives him no pain.
His desk is kept neat
To rest his feet.
His loves are various
And secretarious.
He's full of trouble
Because his life's double.
His look is glamorous,
His heart is amorous!
He raises loans
On telephones.
He smokes a big cigar
And lives on caviar.
A gilded spitoon
Marks the big tycoon.
He looks titanic
When in a panic.
His income waxes
And goes in taxes.
The price of his position
Is a cardiac condition.
Thus wise and thrifty,
He dies at fifty.
His widow is healthy,
Remarried and wealthy.

DESPITE such warning all young man nowadays want to be an executive. Every sales clerk calls himself a junior executive. The waiter who brings your food will soon be a nutritional executive, the housemaid a household executive and the public hangman a legal executive, the only authentic one. There is more execution going on around us than the Criminal Code ever authorized. You can't get through a business day without repeated execution. It is no wonder, as Mrs. Noggins remarked this morning, that we have all lost our heads.

By the curious mythology of this continent everyone must try to be something he is not and had better not be. Everyone tries to give a fancy, dishonest name to a plain honest trade.

The hairdresser, an admirable craftsman of ancient tradition and honorable lineage, calls himself a beautician though obviously he cannot hope, for all his skill, to produce beauty out of his raw material.

THE UNDERTAKER, most essential of workmen, whom nobody can escape, somehow supposes that he can catch us easier by calling himself a mortician.

The barber, having secured $1 for a haircut, is now entitled to appear as a tonsorist with an engineering degree in razors and lather.

Don't be surprised if your emancipated housewife sets up as a domestician and asks for more housekeeping money.

The garbage collector, practitioner of a fine old craft, will be a sanitician as soon as the necessary legislation can be passed.

But the ordinary citizen and taxpayer, after Doug Abbott, the politician, has finished with him, has earned the highest title of honor. He is a rigor mortician.

CARPENTER REPLIES

No doubt the person who signs himself "Fairplay" is a craftsman at his trade (if any) and therefore competent to speak on the failings of members of other trades.

I do not doubt that five carpenters working 10 hours a day could put up a house in 10 days but I would like to see the condition of said house shortly thereafter. The few carpenters he mentioned must be working overtime in Victoria as there are a great number of buildings that have not been built by wood butchers, judging by their finished appearance. We are not ashamed to take our wages or to ask for an increase to meet increased costs any more than any other honest tradesmen.

As for his remarks about stealing, why not take this injustice to court himself if he thinks he has a case. "Fairplay" was obviously afraid to sign his own name to such a letter but here's mine so he can talk to me personally if he wishes.

A DOLLAR A HEAD

Dollar haircuts cannot be justified in Victoria. The shop I patronize does not appear to have added a new thing in the last 10 years—the same old chairs, the same old linoleum on the floor, the same old bottles with the colored water on the shelves. Yet during the past few years the price of a hair cut has doubled, while the income of probably one-third of the men who require the attention of a barber has remained stationary.

The latest jump in the price of haircuts is the last straw. Now something must be done, and at once. Back in Ontario, where I was brought up, the men used to cut each other's hair. I have done it often. There is really nothing to it that an intelligent man might not learn in a week. Parents used to, and still should, cut the children's hair—it is an extravagance to take them away from home for this simple bit of work.

So if the barbers have been overworked and underpaid we should be willing to give them a rest, and I for one am willing to help out.

ANOTHER PENSIONER.

BETWEEN ADVENTS

When expressing appreciation of the recent skit in Loose Ends, involving the comments of Mrs. Noggins, it was a means to an end. This, of course, you fully realized.

But as Moral Philosopher Malik says, in Time Magazine, "In East and West alike our spiritual and intellectual leaders will seek new dimensions and they will find them. . . . And they will bless the names of Marx and Lenin, not indeed for what they did and meant, but for having roused the rest of us from our slumber and forced us to inquire after our good and return to our God."

And as Mr. Malik leaves his readers dangling thus in midair, my end is to indicate where God is to be found, in His second coming. For if the writings of Swedenborg are the Word made rational in its spiritual sense, as he claims they are, then those who are against Him thereby, are still against Him, even more than during His physical presence (the word made flesh), and progressively more so during the interval between His two advents.

SWEDENBORGIAN.

Is This Discrimination?

HEREWITH is a letter sent to Mr. R. W. Mayhew protesting the proposed dumping duty against British motor cars:

"I am writing to you to protest most vigorously against the Government's proposal to increase the price of British-made automobiles through the imposition of an anti-dumping duty next May.

"From a purely economic point of view such a policy is so retrogressive as to be hardly worthy of comment. How can the United Kingdom be expected to pay for our wheat, lumber, apples, etc., if, as soon as a potential market is developed, the Canadian Government does its best to eliminate it? From a sectional point of view it is the exporters from the Maritimes and the West who would be hardest hit by a decrease in British imports.

"Even though it may be admitted that tariff walls are theoretically undesirable, expediency may be argued in support of such a step. In that case it hardly seems fair to raise the price of English cars artificially and at the same time appeal to Canadian producers to hold their prices firm, as is being done to judge from press reports. With the grave international outlook Great Britain may soon enough find materials too scarce to fulfil their orders without having their sales further curtailed by Ottawa in favor of the heavily protected Canadian assembly lines.

"The British manufacturers are producing a practical form of transportation which many Canadians (and Americans) find desirable. There is no mention of any Canadian manufacturer attempting to satisfy this already established market. No, we must slavishly accept what the American designers produce and as soon as any threatened competition appears it must be stifled rather than be met fairly. The Canadian car industry is unimaginative enough without being pandered to in this way but, what is worse, such a solution is a travesty on free enterprise in general and is not what we like to think of as Canadian democracy.

"If, as may be the case, the proposed legislation is an attempt to drain off excess purchasing power and act as a deterrent to inflationary tendencies, surely the more equitable procedure would be to impose a purchase tax on all automobiles regardless of price—though why the motorist should be particularly singled out for this added burden I can't imagine.

"To British Columbians especially, your proposed levy is doubly severe as through the purchase of Austins, Hillmans, Morrises, etc., we are for once able to obtain automobiles on a par with most other Canadians; that is without the added burden of $250 or $300 freight charges since these English cars are delivered on this coast at much the same price as in the East."

Famine Demands Early Attention

By WALTER LIPPMANN, from Washington

THE PROBLEM of the Indian famine is grave and urgent, and what we do about that famine will have great and far-reaching consequences. The main facts of the problem are as follows. There has been a crop failure in India during the past year which is due primarily to a combination of natural disasters in the different parts of India—to floods in some regions, drought in others, to the earthquakes in Assam, and to a plague of locusts. There are about 100,000,000 people who depend on rationed food, and they are already down to nine ounces of rice or wheat per day. These rations cannot be sustained until the autumn unless the Indian government imports about 6,000,000 tons of food grains, of wheat, millet and rice.

Lippmann

Two-thirds of this amount, or 4,000,000 tons, the Indian government has been able to procure and pay for, with some assistance from us. But 2,000,000 tons have still to be taken care of. It is known that the U.S. can supply this amount of food—mostly but not entirely in the form of wheat. The necessary ships are also available though it may be necessary to use some ships that are now mothballed. The cost is estimated at $200,000,000.

The Indian government wishes to finance this transaction as a credit, to be sure on easy terms. The State Department, after studying the over-all Indian financial position, thinks it's unwise that India go into debt for consumable goods. It is, therefore, proposing a grant, and that of course requires action by Congress. This is how the matter got to Sen. Connally's committee.

DESPERATE NEED

Let us hope the members of the committee will approach the question bearing in mind the fact that there is no doubt that India needs the food desperately and that there is no doubt that America has the food and can easily make it available. Under these conditions failure to provide the food can be due only to one reason—an intention to use the granting and the withholding of the food as an instrument of diplomatic pressure upon a government with which we happen at the moment to be disagreeing.

That is something we ought not to do. It is beneath us. We cannot, we must not, stoop to it. It is also something that we cannot afford to do. For it would illustrate too dramatically the propaganda of America's enemies—namely that American philanthropy undermines the independence of the nations which accept it.

Let us not defame ourselves by giving even a shred of justification to the charge that we could let people die of hunger because their government did not vote as our government would like that government to vote. Let us not place between the people of India and the people of America, perhaps for decades or generations to come, such a terrible memory.

Let us not for lack of imagination and experience do as a government what no decent American would dream of doing.

Let us rather buy with this food and this money the incalculable benefit of having proved to the whole world that we do indeed believe in freedom—and that we do not buy the consciences of our friends but only their good will and their confidence in our own decency.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN A. TOBIN

"EVERY so often," said the Elevator Man, "you come across a story in the papers about somebody who's swallowed a load of ironware or glass and has to have it removed. An item last week told how the doctors opened up an Irishman in London and hauled out a six-inch bicycle axle, a twist drill, a five-inch bicycle wrench, and a three-inch steel spring—and then had to go back and get a three-inch hacksaw blade. It makes you wonder how the human gullet can stand such treatment, to say nothing of the stomach. And with a steel shortage looming it's hardly patriotic to hoard like that. A lot of us seem mighty careless what we store in our paunches. We don't show much respect for the inner man. Mezzanine!

Tobin

"But," said the Elevator Man, "that's nothing compared with how we treat our heads. It doesn't get into the newspapers so often but what some of us carry around in our noggins is much more surprising than these hardware disclosures. Some folks swallowed ideas years ago and have been lugging them around ever since, slowly rusting and weighting down their whole lives. And nothing so interesting as twist drills and hacksaws, either. Just dull, soggy thoughts that they can't get rid of, intellectual ballast that they've got so used to they probably couldn't do without. Going down!

"It's quite an upset," said the Elevator Man, "when you find out years later that the idea you've hoarded turns out to be worthless. You wonder why you didn't haul it out into the daylight years ago and look it over, and see it for the lie it is. You might even wish you were like the fella who was asked, 'Do you know anything about those lie detectors we hear so much about these days?' 'Know about them?' he answers, 'I've been married to one for 20 years!' "

Canned Water Useful If A-Bombs Start Falling

BOSTON (AP)—Better stock up on canned water.

It's held in high regard in civil defence circles. Water was quite a problem in the Second World War when the A-bomb was dropped on Hiroshima.

Dr. Myer Selby, Boston chemist who invented a way of canning the stuff, says:

"So far as water supply is concerned, this seems the best solution in atomic warfare."

Under an atomic attack, Dr. Selby noted that there is a new complication: the water supply may pick up deadly materials from the exploded bomb, tiny particles of plutonium, and other poisons.

Here's where the canned water comes in.

"It's sterile and lasts for years," says the chemist. And he adds:

"The cans are of convenient size and they can be tossed around without breaking. Each can will have a can-opener attached to it."

Dr. Selby recommends that a supply of cans be kept in each firehouse and that the firemen carry them in their pockets and on the trucks. Monitoring stations and schools which are to be set up as first aid stations should also have buried stockpiles, in the opinion of the chemist.

Dewey Re-Enters Foreign Policy Debate By Countering Taft-Hoover 'Go Slow' Proposal

NEW YORK (AP)—Governor Thomas E. Dewey has re-entered the "great debate" on foreign policy with an appeal for a large American land army free to deploy its forces in Europe.

The titular head of the Republican Party, twice a Presidential candidate, clearly split with some other Republican leaders—including Senator Robert Taft of Ohio and former President Herbert Hoover—as he was interviewed Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press" television show.

Dewey, in direct variance with Hoover, said it was "the utmost of folly" to think the United States can be defended by air and sea, power without large ground forces.

The Governor also opposed Congressional limitation on the number of American troops sent to Europe, a restriction that Taft advocates.

It takes 200,000 farmers, each producing 1,000 bushels of grain a year, to support the rat population of the United States.

New Hybrid Corns Attract Attention

By JACK G. BEASTALL

With so many gardening subjects to write about at this time of year, our list of 1951 All-America selections has been sidetracked.

Thee new sweet corn hybrids made the award list this season, under the names Iochief, Golden State, and Big Mo.

Jack

Iochief has the same early midseason maturity as the now popular Goldencross Bantam. Reports indicate excellent flavor, tenderness, and yields greater than Goldencross, Ioana or Tendermost, and it is highly recommended for home garden, market, canning and freezing

Ears are nine to 10 inches long with 16 to 18 rows, giving 40 per cent cutting weight. Stalks are wind resistant, plants do fairly well in heat and drought and average one sucker each.

79 DAYS TO MATURITY

Golden State grows to eight and one-half feet, a foot taller than Iochief, and the cobs are ready for eating a few days later, requiring 79 days to maturity.

Ears are eight and one-half inches long with 12 to 14 rows of grains which have a high sugar content and exceptional quality. This hybrid did not do so well in the extreme northern trials.

Big Mo is especially recommended for canning, freezing and market. Seventy days are required from seeding to mid-harvest in the eastern states. Ears are medium flavored, eight and one-half inches, with 16 to 20 rows of grains. Stalks grow to seven feet and the ears are borne high, making machine and hand-picking easy.

None of these new hybrid corns are listed in Canadian seed catalogues at present on hand.

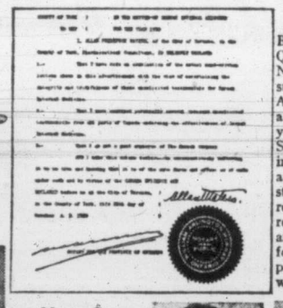
SWORN PROOF SARNAK RELIEVES THOUSANDS



Mrs. May H. Bell, Liverpool, Queen's Co., N.S., writes—"I suffered with Arthritic pain for almost three years but last Spring the pain in my shoulder, arms, fingers and ankles became so intense that I started to try different kinds of remedy. Nothing seemed to give me relief. A friend told me about Sarnak and I have taken eight bottles so far for it is just wonderful the way my pain is relieved and I wouldn't be without Sarnak in the house."

Mrs. Phil Annweiler, 225 Avenue E. South, Saskatoon, Sask., writes—"For the last fifteen years I have suffered greatly with Rheumatic pain and pain rising from a Gall Bladder condition. Although I have taken many forms of analgesic, nothing I took seemed to help me. Just recently I read about Sarnak and bought my first bottle. I am thankful to say that Sarnak has been a great help to me right from the very first. It relieves my pain as nothing else I have taken and I am going to continue taking it and I advise anyone suffering as I did to try Sarnak."

Mrs. George Weston, Selkirk, Man., writes—"I must thank you for what Sarnak has done for me. I am now starting my fifth bottle. I have suffered with the pain of Varicose Veins for a long time and Sarnak certainly has relieved my pain and made me feel so much more alive and active. The pain was so bad that I was unable to do my housework but since I started taking Sarnak I am able to get about my work as usual."

Mr. M. R. Sereda of Beaverdale, Saskatchewan, writes—"For quite some time I suffered with Neuritic and Arthritic pains in my left leg and shoulder. I couldn't move my leg or walk during my last attack for the pain. I started taking Sarnak and after my first bottle the pain was relieved and I can now get around and do some work. I am going to continue with Sarnak for I know it will continue to be a great help."

Yugoslavia Danger Point Of Communist Offensive

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—A survey of top-level estimated on the danger of a new outbreak of war this spring disclosed today the following highly-authoritative conclusions:

1. Yugoslavia is the peril point. A Soviet-Communist attack there would set off spreading hostilities that would almost certainly engulf other countries in a Third World War.

2. The United States should do what is propertly can to strengthen Yugoslavia and discourage an attack either this spring or later. The problem of what to do is under pressing consideration here and in consultation with Britain, France and Marshal Tito's government at Belgrade. One good bet is that Tito eventually will get military supplies from the western powers.

3. The chances are that despite the dangers in the Yugoslav situation, general war will not break out this spring because Russia is not ready. Some high officials here believe Russia will not take a serious risk of war even during 1952.

4. Though the odds are in favor of maintaining the present half-peace, there is still a danger of war-by-incident. The Soviet-Bloc countries have been stepping up their propaganda against Yugoslavia; evidently a new period of nerve war is opening. Tensions and tempers grow and these, with the coming of spring, create an explosive situation.

5. On the peace side of the ledger are two developments. One is the prospect for a Big-Four Foreign Ministers' meeting this spring, indicating the great powers will fight on the diplomatic rather than military front. The other is growing hope for a settlement in Korea now that the Chinese Communists have found out they probably can't win.

Canada's 1950 Income Sets Record; Value Of Goods, Services Reach All-Time High

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's income smashed records in 1950 as the value of production of goods and services soared to an all-time high.

The Bureau of Statistics Saturday reported 1950 national income at $14,164,000,000, an eight-per-cent increase over the previous high of $13,167,000,000 in 1949.

Salaries, wages and other income by Canada's labor force swept to a peak $8,300,000,000, a six-per-cent gain over the 1949 total of $7,800,000,000.

All signs pointed to unprecedented economic activity, with the gross national product—sum total of all goods and services produced—chalking up a $1,300,000,000 gain to a record $17,700,000,000 from $16,383,000,000 the previous year. About half the 8-per-cent climb was due to actual production volume increases; the remainder to price spreads.

This spectacular increase in production and Income was shared by most industry with the exception of farming. Lower initial payments for wheat and increased operating costs pulled down net farm income six per cent to $1,424,000,000 from $1,513,000,000.

Excellent maintenance of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway this winter was noted by Victoria newspaperman and historian, Bruce McKelvie, who has returned from a trip to Williams Lake in the Cariboo.

He said the roadbed was in good condition despite severe weather, and delays caused by snowslides were kept to a minimum.

Is this a portrait of you?

If a modern artist were to paint a picture of you, it might look something like this. But it would represent only the "you" the artist saw.

Actually there are many other "you's" which your family, friends, fellow-workers and others see. And they include a special "you" seen by your life insurance man.

To him, you are a man with a very human side. You are concerned about your family's welfare in case you die suddenly. You have a special dream about what you'd like to do when you start taking it easy in your later years. And you may have other plans and ideas that depend on future income.

Seeing you in this light prompts your life underwriter to help you turn all such desires into sound, practical plans. He is trained to analyze all the facts related to your financial future. And, from the many types of life insurance policies available, he helps you choose those that will suit your purposes and your purse.

That's why your life underwriter is such a good man to know. A man whose understanding attitude and competent advice will stand you in good stead for many years to come. Rely on him!

A helpful citizen in your community

When your life insurance man sells you a policy, he also helps to improve your community. For a large part of each life insurance dollar is put to work through investments to build homes, schools, bridges, highways, industrial plants and many other projects that create jobs and make for better living.

You share in these improvements, made possible through the efforts of your helpful fellow-citizen — the modern life underwriter!

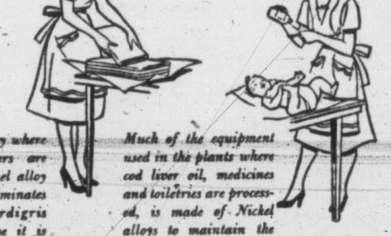
All through his life...NICKEL

Since the discovery of Canada's Nickel deposits, hundreds of uses and vast markets have been developed for Nickel through a planned program of research. So Nickel is now one of our most important exports to the United States and other countries. As a result millions of U.S. dollars come to Canada, which the Nickel industry uses to pay wages, taxes, freight, and to purchase lumber, machinery and supplies.



In the laundry where baby's diapers are washed, Nickel alloy equipment eliminates rust and verdigris stains because it is rust-proof and corrosion-resistant. It does not develop jagged edges, so prevents tearing of the wash.

Much of the equipment used in the plants where cod liver oil, medicines and toiletries are processed, is made of Nickel alloys to maintain the purity of the product.

To commemorate the 200th anniversary of Cronstedt's discovery of Nickel in 1751, the Royal Canadian Mint has this year issued a new five-cent coin. This coin, like previous five-cent pieces, is made of pure Nickel.

THE NEW

VICTORIANS

By Gwen Cash

In years to come, citizens now in their teens, will remember a small neat man with blue eyes that can blaze or become icy cold, a succinct manner, tiny moustache and a penchant for wearing flambouyant ties, never the same two days running.

His name is Haraldr Palsson.

Gwen

A descendant of Vikings, he teaches science and art at Belmont High School. He took his B.Sc. and B. Ed. at Saskatchewan University, a normal school course at Saskatoon, a two-year scholarship course at the Ontario School of Art, served with the R.C.A.F. and taught in the Veterans' School in Calgary.

HARALDR PALSSON

He was born in Arbork, a village in Nya Island (New Iceland), the Norse settlement that stretches for 30 miles along the inhospitable west shore of Lake Winnipeg.

The setting for Laura Godman Salverson's best selling novel "The Viking Heart," Nya Island was pioneered with enormous courage and determination by Icelanders in the middle 70's. One spring small pox killed most of them off.

Haraldr's mother's people were among those who survived.

His father is Dr. Johannes Palsson, a short, heavy, bespectacled, resolute man who smokes innumerable cigars. He retired five years ago and three years later with his wife joined Haraldr in Victoria. He lived a life packed with professional adventure in Manitoba and Saskatchewan. He is an Icelandic scholar, contributes to Icelandic publications, writes plays and fiction.

Years before Haraldr came to live here. He wrote an authoritive book about B.C. Indians. He called it "Totems and Totemism."

While studying at the Ontario College of Art, he was assigned a museum project. He selected B.C. Indians because Toronto has the finest collection of B.C. Totems and Indian Art on this continent and because, as an artist, he was fascinated by its forms.

The B.C. Indians project may have unconsciously directed his steps west; that and the weather. Haraldr has no particular love for cold. He brought to Victoria his charming, fair-haired, Saskatchewan-born wife, took a course at summer school to qualify him for teaching in B.C. schools, and bought the place at Goldstream that in stage coach days was the post office. An 80-year-old orchard surrounds it. There is a postal slit in its back door.

Palssons, senior, live in a new bungalow nearby.

Opposes Seaway

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor Vincent Impellitteri is opposed to Congressional authorization of the proposed $1 billion St. Lawrence Seaway to carry ocean-going shipping from the Atlantic Ocean to midwest ports. The mayor expressed his opinion in telegrams sent to two New York members of the House of Representatives public works committee.

Gossen System Of 'Method With Daring' Pays Dividends In Fighting Flood At Yarrow, B.C.

YARROW, B.C. (CP) — Big Henry Gossen, who has a "system," says he and his men can lick the floods any place, any time.

Grateful residents of this community 50 miles east of Vancouver agree with him.

"We licked those waters with a slow but sure system," he said today. "Just like we did in the big floods of 1948.

"We knew things would be tough but we went to work systematically and we won."

Gossen's "system" is tough, methodical plodding spiked with daring.

Gossen, a member of Yarrow's five-man council, went to work Saturday with a hand-picked crew when a big log jam sent waters of the Vedder Canal spilling into the town and neighboring farmland.

George P. Berksen, whose home was directly in the path of the flood waters, said the water poured down on the town "before we knew it."

He and his wife fled in their night clothes and, within 20 minutes, water had reached the four-foot windows of their home.

Gossen and his men started by directing the evacuation—about 100 of the community's 1,200 residents were evacuated by truck before roads were made impassable.

Gossen and his men worked 28 straight hours in driving rain. They blasted the jam and even the interurban railway tracks to locate a safe path for the flood waters. They tipped out clogged sewers, cleaned out culverts. They knew what to do.

For a long time it was a losing fight. The water reached depths of eight and 10 feet. Roads were inundated, bridges destroyed and barns washed away but finally the water began following the paths Gossen's men had blasted. The battle was won.

PEMBROKE, Ont. (BUP)—Ten box cars of a Canadian Pacific Railway freight train were derailed near here Sunday when an arch-bar beneath one of the cars snapped, causing the wheels to jack-knife. One of the crew was injured.

VIEWS OF SPORT

By RED SMITH

NEW YORK—During the recent week-end in New York, baseball men mumbled vaguely about "green lights," never managing to make it clear whether they meant directives from Washington or traffic signals on Fifth Avenue. Prominent in every baseball mind these days is the question of the game's future in the event of total war.

Smith

At the National League's 75th birthday party, optimists tried to read encouragement into the message of greeting from President Truman, who offered the prayer: "May the sun never set on American baseball." Of the several interpretations offered, the most reasonable was that of The Herald Tribune's Rud Rennie, who suggested that the President had meant it as a rap on night ball.

Happy Chandler, speaking at the baseball writers' dinner, recalled that Washington had not deemed it necessary to close the ball parks during World War II and added that this time the game would go on as long as personnel and the government permitted. Since that's equally true of all other businesses which can't convert to the manufacture of bombs or gunsights, the commissioner's remarks contributed nothing new.

Stop-Gap Program Needed

In short, everybody seems to be thinking in terms of war, but it is thinking inspired only by fear. The baseball men hope to stay in business, wish to postpone the evil day of decision, and see no course other than surrender if the verdict should go against them.

The notion here is that they could be smarter than that. They could gain some measure of protection for their investments by drafting a program, to be adopted only in the last emergency, along the lines suggested by Stanley Woodward in "The Daily Compass."

Now is the time, Stanley has observed, to draw up a plan for part-time operation of the game in the event that it should become impossible to continue a full-scale championship schedule.

The 16 major league teams could be regrouped in two new leagues divided by geographical lines, with an eastern and western league instead of an American and National. This would eliminate unnecessary travel.

A curtailed schedule could be arranged with games limited to week-ends and holidays if necessary, with perhaps occasional twilight shows in mid-week, if that proved possible. Players would be men regularly engaged in essential work.

Limited Operation Preferable

This is substantially the basis on which sports survived the bombs of World War II in England. It is a makeshift arrangement and undesirable, but war is undesirable. From the point of view of the fans, some baseball would be better than no baseball at all. From the desk where the owner sits, a diminished income looks more attractive than bankruptcy.

Such a plan might mean survival for several clubs which, if the sport were shut down entirely, would face almost certain financial ruin.

Most baseball men dislike and fear this sort of talk. They don't want to suggest to Washington the possibility that they might be able to get along with a limited operation, because they are afraid to plant the idea in official minds.

They should be prepared to beat Washington to the draw, because if conditions get tough enough the government will simply shut down non-essential industries which can't offer an alternative plan, just as the horse parks were closed in the last war.

Able Leadership Needed

Meanwhile, the thing to do is keep quiet, ask no favors and go along on the theory that the present emergency is temporary and total war can be averted. It is difficult, however, to see how they can operate intelligently until they get their own ducks in line.

Baseball needs able leadership now, and at the moment it has no leadership at all. A three-man commission such as that which served between the death of Judge Landis and the arrival of Happy Chandler would be infinitely preferable to a commissioned with one leg in office and one out, who is too busy politicking to have time for his job.

This is no time to dawdle over selection of a new commissioner. By the time the owners and their screening committee get around to straightening out the present mess, it may be too late.

Young Olympic Swim Star Coming To Saturday Gala

Coach Archie McKinnon is scratching his greying hair these days trying to entice several of his old stars out to carry the lead against Ray Daughters' powerful swim team next Saturday. Ray has just returned from coaching the American team that flew to the Canterbury Games in New Zealand.

His team will be built around Kay McNamee, former Vancouver swimmer and Empire Games and Olympic star for Canada, and Dick Elliott, elongated freestyle star who is rated as another national champ by his coach.

The Inter-City events will be 100-yard freestyle, 100-yard backstroke, 100-yard breaststroke, 150-yard medley relay and 200-yard freestyle relay for both men and women. The Aquanymphs will give their first showing of the act that they will put on at Vancouver later in the month.

DIVING EXHIBITION

Daughters is trying to talk Al Patnik out of retirement so that he will give local diving fans another chance to see another of his scintillating shows. He gave an exhibition at Seattle during the American championships and is still rated tops by the experts.

Events for local swimmers will be 50-yard freestyle and 50-yard backstroke for boys and girls under 13 and 50-yard freestyle, 50-yard breaststroke and 50-yard backstroke for boys and girls under 17. As an added feature the under-13 girls and boys will have a 200-yard freestyle relay.

There will be workouts at the Y.M.C.A. pool Saturday at 7 p.m. and Wednesday at 7 p.m. for all those interested.

TODD RE-ELECTED

Jack H. Todd was re-elected president of the Y.M.C.A. Swim Club, at the annual meeting held recently in the association building.

Many matters of business were discussed and a good lineup of swimming galas will take place this spring. Dates are already set for the Washington Athletic Club show and the U.B.C. meet. Trips are planned to Bellingham and Seattle for P.N.W. meets. A women's meet is also planned for Salem, Oregon, but no date has been set yet.

Other officers elected were: Hon. presidents, George H. Morgan, Dr. D. A. Hewitt; vice president, Robt. Johnstone; secretary-treasurer, Marge Naysmith; head coach, Archie McKinnon; women's captain, Joan Morgan; men's captain, Stan Powell; girls' captain, Gael Stott; boys' captain, Peter Kirchner; social conveners, Jean Mills and Art Inglis. Rita Norbury and Percy Riddle were added to the executive.

The first meeting of the executive will be held at the Y.M.C.A. Monday evening at 9.

RUGBY PRACTICE

Manager Bruce McLean has called Crimson Tide rugby practices on Tuesday and Thursday of this week. Practices will be held at Macdonald Park starting at 8, and will be preceded by J.B.A.A. practice at 7.

Suzanne Morrow Takes Third Skating Title

Roger Wickson Loses Men's Crown

VANCOUVER (CP) — Suzanne Morrow, the blond little miss from Toronto, today wears the Canadian women's figure skating crown for the third consecutive time.

Performing Saturday with near-perfect spins and leaps, she went on to victory over Vevi Smith of Toronto, who placed second. Jane Kirny of Ottawa was third. Barbara Gratton and Maureen Senior, both of Toronto; Dawn Streckley, Oshawa, Ont., and Betty Hiscock, Toronto, followed in that order.

The senior men's title was won by Peter Firstbrook of Toronto, who dethroned Roger Wickson of Vancouver, the defending champion. Wickson placed second, Billy Lewis of Vancouver was third and Donald Tobin of Ottawa, fourth.

In the junior ladies' championship, little Elizabeth Gratton of Toronto edged out 13-year-old Yarmilda (Ya Ya) Pachl of Montreal to take the title. Sonja Currie of Edmonton placed third.

EASTERNERS STAR

Toronto skaters continued their sweep when Peter Dunfield of the Toronto Skating Club took the junior men's singles title. Charles Snelling of Toronto was second and Malcolm Wickson of Vancouver, third.

Only three couples entered the senior pairs event. Jane Kirby and Donald Tobin of Ottawa won the crown. Frances Dagoe and Norris Bowden of Toronto placed second and Gayle Wakley and David Spalding of Vancouver were third.

Audrey Downie and Brian Power of Vancouver won the junior pairs championship.

Rugby Series May End Here Next Week

The provincial high schools rugby championship may be a sudden-death affair to be played here next week-end.

Poor condition of the grounds canceled the projected first game of a home-and-home series when Oak Bay journeyed to Vancouver Technical School Saturday. The Bays, Howard Russell trophy winners of last year, had been chosen to play the two-game, total-points series against the mainland school for the provincial championship.

Unless other arrangements are made in the meantime, Oak Bay team managers expect that the game here next Saturday will be declared a sudden-death final.

Duncan Soccer Men Bow To High Water

Ordinarily Duncan Native Sons would boast of wading through "Hades and high water" to get to a soccer game, but the week-end floods at the up-island city got the better of the football men yesterday. With several stars remaining home to keep close watch on the flood situation, the Duncan eleven that was only nine went down to a 6 - 2 defeat at the hands of Britannia Legion.

Played at lower Beacon Hill on a fair field before a good crowd, the Britannias-Duncan game starred Legion's Ken Griffin, who got three markers and came close on several others.

Griffin and Jim Davidson combined on the first two goals of the game, early in the initial half. In the second stanza Charlie Constable matched teammate Griffin with a brace.

Duncan came back strong in the last few minutes, getting two quick goals from the toe of Francis Johnnie.

WALGER GETS TWO

In the meantime Bill Walker was playing a big role in Esquimalt's 2 to 1 win over Heaneys on a heavy pitch at Heywood Avenue.

After a scoreless first period, Mel Sillars of Heaneys drew first blood with a preetty marker seconds after the kickoff.

Walker, the Dockyard's speedy inside right, equalized at the 17-minute mark and came back to wind up the scoring with a neat tally two minutes later.

PLAYERS BRAWL

Highlight of the Alcos-Victoria West game at lower Beacon Hill Saturday was the double-bill brawl which came as an anti-climax to Wests 2 to 1 victory.

Rugged from the opening whistle, the game degenerated steadily as Wests fought bitterly to recover a one-goal advantage scored by Leo Kozak halfway through the first half. Charlie Saddler received the brunt of the body checks, the clever Alco goalie being bumped nearly every time he made a play for the ball.

The rough stuff culminated just before the final whistle. After scoring the tying goal at the 17-minute point in the second half, Jim Turner of Wests was banished from the game for bouncing Saddler.

As the game ended, two minutes after Bernie Clarkson had booted home Wests' winning tally, Saddler started for Turner. Alcos' manager, George Weatherall, in trying to break up the donnybrook, was tackled by Wests' Len Scott in a short but bitter round of fisticuffs.

Standings follow:

	W.	L.	T.	F.	A.	Pts.
Victoria West	6	1	1	26	14	13
Esquimalt	6	2	1	31	15	13
Oak Bay	3	3	0	14	19	6

Cougars Defeated, But So Are Royals

Locals Have Two Games In Hand Over Westminster

Pacific Coast Hockey league-leaders wound up the week-end still seven points apart as Victoria Cougars dropped a 7 to 2 decision to Portland Eagles and New Westminster were blanked 4 to 0 by Seattle in Red McAtee's first shut-out this season.

The Royals loss was the second in as many nights. In Westminster Saturday Babe Pratt's squad went down 7 to 5 before a Canuck team cheered on by wildly delirious Vancouver fans.

	W.	L.	T.	F.	A.	Pts.
New Westminster	30	18	7	212	162	67
VICTORIA	24	17	12	177	161	60
Tacoma	21	21	11	161	168	53
Portland	24	25	5	215	197	53
Seattle	18	26	10	168	188	46
Vancouver	16	26	13	170	227	45

With two games in hand, Cougars will have a chance to close in on Royals when they meet Seattle Ironmen here tomorrow night.

ROUGH CONTEST

The Portland game was a bruising tilt. Cougars garnered 11 of the 19 penalties handed out, three of them going to playing-coach Roger Leger.

Geoff Burman and Ed Mazur broke the Cougar goal famine in the third period, but it was too late to catch the driving Rose City club.

The win puts Portland in a third-place tie with Tacoma Rockets who defeated Seattle 3 to 2 Saturday.

FRAMPTON MISSED

Bobby Frampton, play-making member of Cougar's kid line, was missed in Portland. Still undergoing treatment for an injured ankle sustained in the Tacoma game here Friday, Frampton may miss tomorrow's game against Seattle.

Wings Pad Lead With Double Win

It looks more and more as if Dick Irwin, coach of Montreal Canadiens, was right when he said Detroit Red Wings were better than Toronto Maple Leafs.

Detroit which has been carrying on a season-long fued with Toronto for the National Hockey League's No. 1 spot, scored two victories during the week-end, one of them over the Leafs, the other over Boston Bruins.

Both were done in neat fashion and both were by the score of 2 to 1. The Toronto game gave Detroit a season's edge over the second-place Leafs of five victories against three losses with three ties.

Other week-end games saw Montreal Canadiens drop a pair, one to New York Rangers at Madison Square Garden 3 to 1 Sunday night; the other to the Bruins in Boston 6 to 0 Saturday night; and Chicago Black Hawks take a 5 to 3 beating from Toronto.

In Boston Sunday night, Gordie Howe, brilliant right winger and league leading scorer, came up with both Detroit goals as Bruins took their first home-ice loss since Dec. 17. Howe, who now has 28 goals, scored one 41 seconds after the game started. Vic Lynn tied it up at 12.58 and the teams played fast, scoreless hockey until only two minutes and 33 seconds remained when Howe got the winner on a pass from Syd Abel.

Abel Steals Howe's Thunder

Gordie Howe's thunder was stolen last week in the National Hockey League's individual scoring race, by one of his own Detroit teammates. Howe still is running ahead of the pack with 65 scoring points made up of 29 goals and 36 assists.

But Syd Abel catapulted from fourth place right into undisputed possession of second. Abel combined 20 goals and 30 assists for 50 point, three ahead of Detroit's Red Lindsay, Montreal's Maurice Richard and Toronto's Max Bentley.

Richard retained his top goal-scoring position with 32 but Howe is creeping closer. Richard tallied only one goal last week against Howe's four.

Robinson Sees LaMotta Fight Going Route

CHICAGO (AP)—For a guy who has beaten Jake Lamotta four out of five times, sugar Ray Robinson is being surprisingly demure about his sixth chance at the Bronx bull.

Welterweight champion Robinson, hailed by many as one of the trimmest fighting machines in history, will try to bag Lamotta's 160-pound title in a 15-rounder at Chicago Stadium Wednesday.

"So I'm a 4-1 or 3-1 favorite?" asks Robinson — "I've never heard of a welterweight challenging for the middleweight title as such a favorite. My only hope is that at the end of 15 rounds my arm will be raised as the winner."

"I'll go against LaMotta to win, but I don't think I can chill him unless I happen to get lucky," he admits. "I'll be very happy to settle for a decision."

'Viduals Show Class In Downing Eilers

A possible preview of the British Columbia senior A men's basketball playoffs took place at Badminton Hall Saturday night, and if the game is any criterion of what is likely to happen in the provincial finals, cage fans are in for rousing series.

Of course the two contestants, Victoria Individuals and Vancouver Eilers, are a long way from being in the finals but off Saturday's showing both rate as contenders.

Individuals, whose only obstacle is Alberni, eked out a 58 to 54 decision over Jim Bardsley's smooth-functioning league leaders from the mainland but the game was in doubt right down to the final whistle.

Playing explosive ball, the two clubs showed flashes of brilliance that could mean a provincial title for either squad.

'Viduals started fast and were on top early, but Eilers came right back and soon had caught the locals.

It was nip and tuck through the first half with Eilers knotting the count at 29 to 29 just at the intermission whistle.

CLARK SPARKS ATTACK

Rangy Johnny Clark was the standout figure on the floor as he piled in 26 points, 10 coming in the waning minutes of the game as the locals established their winning margin.

Trailing 45 to 42 at the midway mark of the second half, 'Viduals through two hoops by Clark and a pair of free shots by Rookie Wright grabbed the lead for the final time.

Sparking Eilers were two former U.B.C. stalwarts, Nev Munroe and Reid Mitchell. Munroe hit for 14 points mostly on long one-handers, while Mitchell was particularly deadly on two-handed set shots.

Bobby Boyes and Elmer Curtis, in addition to Clark and Wright, were the mainstays of Individuals.

It was 'Viduals second win over the Eilers, the locals having defeated the jewelers by three points in a previous contest on the mainland.

Line-ups follow:

Eilers—Mitchell 17, Lawn 2, Walt—6, Forsythe 8, Moses 2, Munro 14, Watson, Wotherspoon 4, Lord 1. Total 54.

Individuals—Hendry, Clark 26, Tooby, Clarkson 3, Curtis 9, Matthews 1, Wright 10, Castner 1, Boyes 8. Total 58.

Lindsay Hassett In Great Stand

MELBOURNE, Australia (Reuter)—Lindsay Hassett, Victorian and Australian captain, hit 232 runs, highest innings of his career, in helping Victoria to score 441 against the touring English cricket team here today.

At the close of the second day's play, the touring side had lost four wickets for 24 runs.

QUAKERS STOP FLYERS

EDMONTON (CP)—Saskatoon Quakers strengthened their hold on the third and last playoff spot in the Western Canada Senior Hockey League by scoring an impressive 6 to 3 victory over Edmonton Flyers in a penalty-studded game Saturday night.

POLLY RILEY WINNER

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Polly Riley won the 26th annual Palm Beach women's golf tournament Saturday, defeating Betty MacKinnon 2 and 1. Both girls are Texans.

CHIROPRACTIC FOR HEALTH

ASK A CHIROPRACTOR!

No one, either physician or layman, who has not properly studied and practiced chiropractic, is competent to give an intelligent opinion on the subject, or to say what it can or cannot do. Experience has shown that it is doing an immense amount of good in the matter of bringing about the correction of acute and chronic conditions, especially chronic cases that have not obtained the desired relief under other methods.

The chiropractor approaches disease from a different viewpoint. That is why it is successful where other methods sometimes fail.

The remarkable results brought about through chiropractic adjustments are due to the fact that the correction of minute disrelationships between adjacent vertebrae in the spinal column restores to normal the nerve supply for all tissues and organs in the body. Since the nervous system is the most important governing mechanism in this very complicated human body of ours, it is necessary that interference through spinal distortion be removed. The only person qualified to say whether or not spinal misalignment is producing your ill health, is a Chiropractor.

Learn of other people's experience with chiropractic, then in order to obtain information about your own case, ask a chiropractor.

Would-Be Draft Dodger Admits $4,000,000 Arson

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A husky, 19-year-old father today confessed setting a $4,000,000 fire in the Michigan State Office building here "to avoid the draft," Prosecutor Paul C. Younger said.

Richard C. Shay, a State Highway Department employee, signed a formal statement admitting he set the fire Thursday noon, Younger said. He will be charged with arson.

The prosecutor added Shay confessed to touching a match to a map just before leaving

The 45-hour blaze gutted the upper floors of the eight-story structure.

Younger said Shay, married and the father of a seven-month-old baby, told him he had received an order to report for a pre-induction draft physical.

Burgess Bedtime Story

By THORNTON BURGESS

Good luck most often will attend
Those most persistent to the end.
—Old Mother Nature.

Flaptoes the Grebe had been in trouble many times, but never in such trouble as he was in now. You know trouble is a part of the everyday life of folks in feathers and fur. Probably they have some days without trouble, but they are few and far between. That is why it is just too bad that so many human beings make more trouble for their neighbors in the Green Forest and the Green Meadows.

The big river had made a prisoner of Flaptoes. Perhaps that isn't quite the way it really was. Perhaps I should say that the big river and Jack Frost had made a prisoner of Flaptoes. He was in a very small bit of open water, so small that he couldn't get out of it. He has to have room enough to paddle and fly along the surface until he is going fast enough to rise, the way an airplane taxis to the take-off. Now Jack Frost was making the ice creep out all around, which of course made less and less open water. It looked as if within a day or two, Jack Frost would cover all that open water with ice. Then what would happen to poor Flaptoes?

KNEW THE RESULT

He knew what would happen. Either Reddy Fox or King Eagle would have him for dinner. That wasn't a pleasant thought. He didn't want to be a dinner for anyone. Every day Reddy Fox visited him and grinned at him from the ice, and every day King Eagle swooped at him

This morning he had hardly room to swim enough to get a little exercise. He went round and round, and in doing so he kept the water from freezing over. Reddy Fox sat just a little way back. He didn't dare get any closer because the ice was thin, and he knew that by another day he probably would be able to catch Flaptoes, and he grinned in anticipation.

"Caw, caw, caw!" called Blacky the Crow. He was some distance away circling above a certain spot, as is his way, when he spies something of interest and isn't afraid. Blacky never circles over a man with a gun. He knows a gun as far as he can see it. Reddy Fox got to his feet and looked over toward Blacky. He didn't grin now. He began to walk about uneasily, all the time looking toward where Blacky was cawing.

King Eagle, who had been sitting on a tree on the bank of the big river, spread his broad wings and flew away. Flaptoes stopped swimming about. He held his head high as he too looked toward Blacky. What he saw didn't make him feel a bit happy. It was Farmer Brown's boy. Flaptoes had never met Farmer Brown's boy. He was afraid of all those two-legged folks called humans. Farmer Brown's boy was coming his way. Reddy Fox began to move away. Presently he began to trot off toward the old pasture. Blacky the Crow left Farmer Brown's boy and came over to circle above poor frightened Flaptoes.

Every day Reddy Fox visited him and grinned at him from the ice.

It was just as if he were trying to tell Farmer Brown's boy where Flaptoes was.

It is a terrible thing to feel helpless. There is no more dreadful feeling than that when there is danger. Farmer Brown's boy was standing near, watching. Flaptoes dived again. When he came up the next time, Farmer Brown's boy was on his way home.

Half an hour later Flaptoes had another fright. Farmer Brown's boy was coming back. He was carrying a long-handled net. When he got to the edge of the hole Flaptoes dived again. It was his last dive.

Britain Goes Into Steel-Making Business Thursday; Bosses Stay Off Job

LONDON (AP) — The Labor Government hangs out a new business shingle Thursday: Steelmaker and Ironmaker.

That is the day it takes over all of the country's biggest iron and steel plants. It will be the eighth, and ostensibly the last, Socialist nationalization of basic industry in Britain since 1945.

The new iron-and-steel set-up will be headed by Steven Hardie, "a rare bird" in the words of Conservative Leader Winston Churchill. Churchill fought hard but in vain against steel nationalization. Although a millionaire, Hardie is a Socialist.

The basic philosophy of socialism calls for collective or government ownership and management of the essential means for the production and distribution of goods. The Socialists in Britain campaigned on this platform in 1945 but pared down their ideas considerably in the campaign of 1950 and thereafter

It will be a mite different in the steel and iron business than in the others.

Ninety-two companies, the big fellows who produce more than 90 per cent of British iron and steel, will be bought in by the government. The small producers will become a minor remnant of private enterprise in that industry.

Temperature in parts of Siberia fall even lower than they do at the North Pole.

Fate Brought Jim Mowat To Island For Successful Business, Political Life

This is another in a series on Vancouver Island private members who will participate in the forthcoming session of the B.C. Legislature.

By LLOYD BAKER

A blind stab at a map with a pin put Jim Mowat on the road to success. . . .

But don't think for a minute it was smooth going immediately he abandoned his Soldier Settlement farm at Kinsella, east of Edmonton, in 1923, and moved to Vancouver Island.

Mowat

Don't think, either, that the Scottish-born M.L.A. for the Albernis had his sights set on a target of politics when he made the move.

He was just fed-up after being bailed out, dried out, and finally frozen out in his four years of trying to make a go of growing wheat. So he and his wife decided to rid themselves of that unfriendly country.

Where to go?

Jim liked the idea of trying B.C., after having worked previously for a year in a Toronto foundry, as a fireman at Medicine Hat, and as engineer at C.P.R. water pumping stations in various parts of Alberta.

It was agreed then, to let fate decide, and Mrs. Mowat took pin in hand, covered her eyes, and jabbed at the map of this province.

When they looked to see where the pin pierced the paper, they learned they were going to the Nanaimo-Alberni area.

When they arrived at Nanaimo with their two sons (a third was born later), they found the mines of the district shut down, and the possibility of finding work scant. On they moved to Port Alberni and there they have stayed ever since.

Jim found work as an engineer of a steam tugboat, the Patsco (Port Alberni Towing and Salvage Co.), operating on the Alberni Canal. Later he went logging for an East Indian company at Useless Inlet. Then he took a job as engineer at Little Bros.' shingle mill at Port, which now is the Alberni-Pacific Lumber Co.

In 1925 when the post-war boom began to level off, Jim saw depression days coming and he decided to go into business for himself. He thought the shoe business was a good bet . . . "No matter how tough it gets you've got to have something on your feet" . . . so he opened a repair shop.

He caught on quickly to the business of re-soling shoes, and later added a retail section to his shoe store.

POPULAR PLACE

His quiet, unassuming airs and his friendly smile soon helped make his store at Third Avenue and Angus Street (opposite the P.O.) a popular place.

James Mowat became a well-liked and respected member of the community and in 1941 he was persuaded to run for office. Before he knew it, he was a member of the Legislature.

He was re-elected to office in 1945, but by the time the next election came along, four years later, he found he had made strong enemies because, he claims, he refused to play politics in business, and he lost the Coalition nomination.

The enemy camp was not so large as some thought, though, and Jim's front-door bell began ringing. Liberals, Conservatives and even some followers of the C.C.F. didn't like the deal Mowat had received, and they talked him into seeking re-election, Coalition nomination or not.

So Jim entered his name in the race, calling himself an Independent Liberal. He won hands down, the Coalition candidate placing third to the C.C.F., and Jim getting a clear majority of over 1,000 votes.

When he came to Victoria for the 1950 session of the House, he had letters from the Conservative Association and other groups asking that he be allowed to take part in the workings of the Legislature as a Coalition member. He was welcomed back into the fold.

VICTORIAN SPRING

by Cecil Maiden

Letty Merridew, shipwrecked and orphaned off Victoria in 1862, is rescued by Amelia Murray, daughter of an important official in the young colony's legislature. Letty is taken into the Murray home, where she arouses the instant envy of Amelia's beautiful stepsister—the lucky Caroline Murray.

VII

Almost unbelievably, it was morning. When Letty opened her eyes the quietness and stillness of everything made her hold her breath For seemingly endless other mornings she had been accustomed to the rise and fall of the ship. . . .

The ship! The whole nightmare of last night's events came sweeping back into her consciousness, shocking her to full awakening. She looked, wild-eyed, at the unfamiliar bedroom in which she now found herself. She half sat up in this strange, soft bed, and turned her face from the d oor to the window.

What she saw through the window was also very still. The nearby trees, the mountains across the water, were bathed in an early morning sunshine that seemed itself to have a quality of stillness. It turned into a sheet of innocent, unmoving blue sea . . . that selfsame, terrifying sea in which her father and mother . . .

Her mother! Yesterday afternoon her mother had sat in the ship's saloon with her knitting, laughing and joking away until the ship's motion made her go back to the cabin to lie down, Yesterday afternoon? Had they really ceased, those laughing, mock-dignified words of chiding "Away to bed with you, Letitia. Even a girl who wants to be a dancing teacher must get her beauty sleep!"

A frantic ache was left; a helpless disbelief in it. From some dark depths of consciousness the word "orphan" came rushing to her mind. The word startled her, but with surprising resolution she refused to let it torment her.

She thought of her arrival last night in this big house in Victoria. She thought of Mrs. Murray's hesitant, strange welcome; of whispered words Amelia had not intended her to hear: "They fear her mother and father are lost, Mama," and Caroline's sharp "Drowned, Amelia?"

Drowned! Surely Caroline could not have intended any conscious cruelty.

Letty recalled how, at least, Mrs. Murray had melted, and taking her shivering hands between her own warm fingers had said, "You poor darling! There's a nice warm bed waiting for you upstairs. I do hope you'll manage to sleep a little after this shock." Upon which Caroline had added, "And I'm sure, Miss Merridew, we'll all help to find you a pleasant lodging place in the morning."

Letty thought again of Amelia, the tall, angular girl who had rescued her and driven her home through the storm to this place of refuge.

As if there had been some instant potency in the thought, the bedroom door half opened, and Amelia herself appeared at the narrow opening.

And despite her severe grey dress, Amelia did not look at all plain this morning, with that friendly, genuine smile of welcome. In her hand she held a steaming cup of tea, and over her arm she had a brown dress.

Miss Merridew — you were awake, weren't you?" Letty took the proffered tea gratefully, and with a very heartfelt "Thank you!" started to sip it. Amelia went on, "The dress you were wearing last night still wants ironing, dear. I thought you'd like to wear one of mine until it's ready. I haven't got a black one that would do, though we could see about mourning later, if you wish for it."

Letty sat fully up in bed now, setting the cup down at the suggestion, and refusing to dwell upon it. She extended her arms for the brown dress as Amelia leaned forwards with it. "Thank you. Thank you very much!"

Amelia gave a short, apologetic laugh. "I'm afraid it may not fit you . . . I'm so much taller. But we could turn it up."

Letty slipped out of bed, a slender figure in the borrowed nightgown. She held the brown dress against her, and it did indeed fall generously over the carpet at her feet.

"You've been so very kind to me, Miss Murray—it is Miss Murray, isn't it?"

"Yes. Amelia Murray. The other one—the one you saw last night when we got home was my sister, Caroline. Perhaps you'd just like to say 'Amelia,' and feel like one of the family."

"Thank you. And I'm just 'Letty,' you know."

"Letty, then."

As Letty walked over the carpet to the tall mirror, still holding the dress against her, Amelia noticed how well the girl's deep chestnut hair looked over the brown material; how brightly, yet with what tragic brightness, the grey-green eyes shone above it.

"I'd better stay and turn that hem up right away, Letty, if you're to wear it. Just slip it on and stand still for a minute or two." Amelia took a needle and thread from a small satchel she had brought in with her, helped Letty pull the dress down over her shoulders and then began the required alterations.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY

"Please settle a percentage question," requests a New York City reader. "South let the opponents hold the first spade trick, won the second with dummy's king, and entered his hand with a heart to finesse for the queen of hearts.

"East won the club and continued spades, whereupon South was a gone gosling. If he tried to set up his ninth trick in clubs, East would win and run the spades. If he took the diamond finesse, West would win and lead a club to his partner.

"North says that the proper play is to take the diamond finesse before tackling the clubs. If it loses, the suit may nevertheless break 3-3 (as it did) to give declarer his ninth trick.

"Who is right?"

North wins. His play is roughly 10 per cent better than the actual play.

The right play is to duck the first trick, win the second trick with the king of spades, cash the king of diamonds, and then finesse the jack of diamonds. West wins and returns a spade, of course, but South wins and cashes the ace of diamonds, discovering that dummy's last diamond is good for the ninth trick.

The most interesting part of this hand is the bidding. Four hearts is unbeatable, while three no-trump may well be defeated (and actually was, when the hand was played).

If my correspondents had been using the Stayman Convention, they would have reached the right contract. North's first response would have been two clubs—asking South to show a biddable major. South would oblige by bidding two hearts, whereupon North would raise to four hearts.

This convention is so useful, and there have been so many question about it, that I shall describe it more fully in other articles this week.

CARD Sense

Q—With both sides vulnerable, your partner deals and bids one heart. The next player passes and you hold: Spades K-7, Hearts K-4-3, Diamonds A-J-10-6, Clubs K-Q-7-3. What do you do?

A—Bid two diamonds. Your hand is a trifle too good for a jump to two no-trump, but not quite good enough for a jump to three no-trump. You can show your full strength later on.

TODAY'S QUESTION

The bidding continues. Your partner bids two hearts over your response of two diamonds. The opponents pass throughout. What do you do?

Answer tomorrow.

What's Your Opinion?

By IRVING STRICKLAND AND DAVE STOCK

"Do you think rent controls should be continued?"

Percy Rayment, secretary of Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council, 1526 Fell Street—

"To remove rent controls would be an open invitation to landlords to raise rents, and since that would hit very largely those in low and medium bracket incomes, I am personally strongly opposed to it in common with a million other members of the Canadian trade union movement. In the event the Dominion government does retire from that field, I feel the province should step in and prevent further increases in rent."

Mrs. Queenie Haddow, proprietress of Q-Will Gift Shop, 1543 Fort Street—"I'm both a landlord and a tenant, and the point I have against rent control is the ruling that you can't give a tenant notice. If you had the type of tenant who would take advantage of that, they would do just what they wanted and tell you outright you couldn't do anything about it. Control is a good thing in many instances, though. Some landlords have charged far too much, especially for one-room accommodation."

Russell Ker, director of Ker & Stephenson Ltd., 1470 Rockland Avenue—"I'm against control. I feel it's a great hardship on landlords who, since the war, have not been able to get a reasonable return on today's property values. Also, the landlords can't get people out. That means when the rent is fixed particularly low, they can't sell their houses. Most persons renting a house have had their wages go up in a higher ratio than rents since rent controls originated. That extra money is being spent on amusements."

Mrs. Eva Giles, dressmaker, 2230 Hampshire Terrace—"Controls seemed to work pretty well during the war and I think in some cases they should be maintained. High rents would be a great hardship on many people, especially those in the white collar class. There are people who, if there were no controls, would just take advantage of the tenants."

Millard Lougheed, proprietor of Lougheed's Banquet Club, 523 Harbinger Avenue — "I don't think any controls would be necessary if we had control of our money as we should have. Competition in itself would control prices. If we had utilized our natural resources as we should, there would not be a housing shortage, and therefore, no necessity for rent controls. Under existing conditions, however, your guess is as good as mine as to what to do."

Mrs. E. M. Allen, visitor to Victoria, 1557 Oak Bay Avenue—"I think controls should be maintained, especially for the lower-income groups—people who can't afford to buy a house of their own. I've never really got down to studying controls, though, because I've only been out from England a few months and I'll be going home soon. I'm going home for health reasons. Your climate doesn't agree with me. Don't tell me it rains in England."

Continue Fraud Case In City Court Tuesday

McKenna Withdraws Writ Asking Delay In Clyde Gillies' Hearing

A Supreme Court application for a writ prohibiting Magistrate H. C. Hall from proceeding with the preliminary hearing of Clyde Gillies, charged with conspiracy to defraud and theft, was abandoned today by Joseph McKenna, counsel for the accused.

Mr. McKenna notified Supreme Court Registry that he was abandoning his application which was scheduled to be heard before Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane in chambers today. The Attorney-General's Department approved.

The preliminary hearing into the fraud charge will continue Tuesday as the result of the lawyer's action. It was adjourned last week pending hearing of Mr. McKenna's application.

Mr. McKenna filed the application last Tuesday when Magistrate Hall refused his request for an adjournment of the preliminary hearing until Feb. 13. The lawyer at the same time wanted City Prosecutor Claude Harrison to furnish him with certain information with regard to the indictment.

Gillies is accused of defrauding W. A. Scott, a retired custom official, of $9,000. He also faces a charge of theft of $8,545 from Mrs. Edith Bourne, 806 Cook

Eagles' Charity Work Outlined

Current programs of the Fraternal Order of Eagles in humanitarian, social and civic fields, were outlined by William B. Hornblower, San Francisco, Calif., grand worthy president, in an address to members of the Victoria Aerie, No. 12, at the Aerie Home Sunday.

"Programs which the Eagles are sponsoring in more than 1,800 communities in the United States and Canada include youth guidance, child health, and aid for the handicapped," Mr. Hornblower stated.

Mr. Hornblower said that the Aeries also contributed a total of $300,000 last year to charitable and community causes, including the campaign against infantile paralysis, tuberculosis, cancer and crippled children.

A $3,000,000 Foundation Fund, contributed by Eagles in the United States, is making it possible for hundreds of children of members killed during the war to attend the college and university, Mr. Hornblower said.

Resources Of B.C. To Be Reviewed

British Columbia's vast natural resources will come under discussion, and summaries of varying activities in the field will be presented at the fourth annual meeting of the B.C. Natural Reources Conference to be held here Feb. 22 and 23.

Chairmen of the gatherings, to be held at the Empress Hotel, will be Dr. Ian McTaggart Cowan of U.B.C.; George P. Melrose, deputy minister of lands; and Dean B. A. Eagles of U.B.C.

Forums will be held on optimum land use, rangelands of B.C., fish and power, and mining in parks and forests.

The forum on optimum land use will be presented by Ralph Gram, B.C. Electric Railway agricultural service, assisted by Dr. C. A. Powley, of U.B.C., W. G. Hughes of the B.C. Forest Service and R. D. Grant of the V.L.A.

Transit Employees Vote

Over 3,000 members of the Street Railwaymen's Union in Victoria, Vancouver and New Westminster today voted on acceptance or rejection of a new two-year wage agreement with B.C. Electric Railway Co. New formula calls for an 11-cent hourly increase, effective March 1 and an additional 2½ cents March 1, 1952, and improved conditions. L. W. Neilson, left, Victoria employee, casts vote under supervision of R. W. Nunn, financial secretary. Result of polling will be announced late tonight or Tuesday.

Unable To Estimate Damage To Interior Roads Through Floods

Provincial government engineers have been unable to evaluate damage to Fraser Valley roads from slides and washouts because they are unable to get through to many points, Evan Jones, deputy minister of public works, said today.

He could give no estimate of how long it would take to clear the highways, but pointed out that every available piece of equipment in the Fraser Valley was at work.

Mr. Jones said slides had been reported in the Revelstoke district, but they were not considered serious.

No reports of road trouble on Vancouver Island have come in to his office.

Floods on the mainland are decreasing with clear, cold skies, and the problem now confronting public works men is mainly one of "cleaning up the mess," Mr. Jones said.

Resuscitator Crew Saves Man's Life

Resuscitator crews of the Saanich Fire Department during the week-end saved one man's life and were called into action on two other cases.

Suffering from a spell of suffocation after a lung collapsed, J. T. Cockings, 130 Burnside, is in Veterans' Hospital resting in good condition.

Firemen applied the resuscitator en route to the hospital and while Cockings was being taken up in the elevator. They were credited with a "good save." Cockings was in an oxygen tent for only a short time.

A department crew attended at Box 1492 Wilkinson, where their efforts failed to revive T. A. Storey, 59, who died from a heart attack.

They were called to 3137 O'Appelle at 1.15 Sunday morning where Peter Brackett, 9, was suffering from bronchile trouble. When firemen arrived the boy was being put in a Victoria service ambulance and given treatment with an inhalator. The boy's condition is reported as satisfactory at Jubilee Hospital.

ADMITS STRIKING DRIVER

Gordon Remanded For Sentence On Assault

John K. Gordon, 40, London, Ont., who struck B.C. Electric bus driver John McConnell with a ketchup bottle on the evening of Feb. 2, pleaded guilty in city police court today to a charge of assault.

Magistrate H. C. Hall remanded Gordon, alias Donald Haldane, to Tuesday for sentence. He is in custody.

Prosecutor C. L. Harrison told the court of the assault which occurred while McConnell was driving a loaded Burnside-Wilkinson bus on a non-stop schedule to Admirals Road.

While the bus was proceeding along Burnside Gordon kept ringing the buzzer for the bus to stop and when McConnell would not the accused came up to him and said: "If you don't stop I'll break your neck!"

After this Mr. Harrison said Gordon hit McConnell over the shoulders and lower neck with the bottle and then tried to grab the wheel. As McConnell prepared to stop the bus to settle the trouble, Gordon kicked open the door and disappeared.

"I thought he should have had the courtesy to stop and let me out," Gordon said, explaining he had not been aware it was a non-stop run.

Gordon has a past criminal record which was read to the court. It included other assaults.

STEAL CHEQUES

Four payroll cheques made out for a total of $230, were stolen from the office of Ottis Elevator Co., 624 Broughton, during the week-end, city police reported. There was no sign of forcible entry.

YOUNG SOLDIER HITS OLDSTER

Paul Swigney, 18-year-old soldier, was turned over by police to the Army Provost Corps at 11.45 Saturday night after he had pushed 71-year-old Ralph Bell of 1147 Johnson Street, and struck him with his fist on Yates Street by the Standard Furniture. Constable Lester Clark saw the assault, which, he said, shook Mr. Bell up considerably. Mr. Bell told police he will ask the army to take disciplinary action.

Greater Social Assistance Badly Needed Says Brief

Delegates Make Plea To Minister To Set Lead

The mainland branch of the Canadian Association of Social Workers today went to bat for the underprivileged of the province.

A delegation of four, headed by Harry Morrow, Vancouver, vice-president of the branch, presented a brief to Health and Welfare Minister A. D. Turnbull asking for an immediate substantial increase in social assistance rates.

The social workers noted that total assistance now provided in most categories "hardly covers the cost of food alone."

The brief also urged that shelter allowance to those receiving assistance be granted on the basis of the actual cost to the individual in his community.

WANT CHANGE IN POLICY

Abandonment of the present policy of setting the maximum social assistance allowance at that given to a family of six was asked.

Such a family now gets $64 a month, plus $20 a month for shelter. Food allowance is $56.50 a month, and $7.50 is allowed for sundries.

Tables submitted with the brief gave comparative figures on amounts of assistance given here with those in Toronto.

The delegation said it realized that the Municipal and Social Assistance Act places much of the responsibility for indigent and destitute cases on the municipality, but asked for "leadership in this issue" by the provincial government "because we know that in recent years the provincial government has been dominant in the financing of social assistance and the setting of standards.

"Present rates do not live up either to the letter or the spirit of the statute. A disabled man and his wife with two children receive only $67 a month to cover all expenses. The $8.50 a month granted to cover expenses for each additional dependent will not even pay for a quart of milk and a loaf of bread a day.

"The total assistance now provided in most categories hardly covers the cost of food alone," the brief stated.

'SEARCH FOR POWER'

J. S. Kendrick, resident engineer of the Aluminum Company of Canada, will address a meeting of the Victoria branch, Engineering Institute of Canada Friday night at 8 in Prince Robert House. His subject, "Search for Power," will be illustrated.

'FLOOD CHIEF' FINDS HIMSELF MAROONED BY INTERIOR SLIDES

The man who will have many of the headaches resulting from floods and landslides in the province himself has been "stuck."

Works Minister E. C. Carson was due to return to his office at the Parliament Buildings today after a week in the interior, but remained at Lillooet when slides blocked highways in the Fraser Valley.

He is expected back about Wednesday.

Lost property was valued at $19,355; amount recovered was valued at $5,058.

Lace, Or Chocolate Heart To Win Your Valentine

By PENNY SAVER

"I'm Lonely," "Trust Me Dear," "It's O.K. With Me!" The foregoing is not conversation in soopreem climax of movie love clinch but printed words on the old-fashioned conversation lozenges that I saw this fair morning. Haven't seen the likes of the little heart-shaped candies in many moons. They're here in time for that day-after-tomorrow occasion.

* * *

Here, too, from the land of grass skirts, with matching houses, guitar players and hurricanes, are the tiniest gems of orchids you've ever bought for 15 pennies. And that's all they are, too, 15 pennies, for flower and heart-shaped container to keep it fresh. If Junior and little Griselda are all for presenting Mummy with a Valentine gift the mauve-toned orchid should suit their wee change purse to a T.

So Mummy's allergic to flowers you say? Then how about a perfumed sachet to slip in with her Valentine card. Sum of 15 pennies pay for the new fragrant sachet that measures about 1½ inches square.

Lace handkerchiefs tipped with red hearts at each of the four corners, is a thoughtful way to remember someone. For the bit of cloudlike lace and fussiness, take one dollar bill from your purse.

* * *

As popular this year as last is the candy box, filled with chocolates, that can be eaten! Well, it's not really a box, come to think of it, for it is heart-shaped and made of pure chocolate. You not only eat the inner chocolate morsels but the covering, too! Dressed for the occasion in red and gold foil and tied up with ribbon, the "boxes" sell from 75 pennies, up.

Jelly beans by the pound had to jump the price on their cards this year and are now selling for 45 pennies . . . cinnamon hearts, 40 cents, and jellied hearts, 10 pennies less.

For the party table you needn't worry about red stains of paper cups and the like on your good cloth, Mom, all you need do is bring home a paper tablecloth, 25 pennies, and package of matching napkins, 15 cents. If you have big ideas of your own for decorations, you'll find ample crepe paper about two inches wide and in 40-foot lengths, for 15 cents.

A Happy Valentine to all . . . and take care, Cupid might be standing behind you with his little quiver loaded with arrows!

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

Widowed Woman Abandoned By Friends Of Married Years; Is Puzzled

Dear Mary Haworth: I am a widow nearly 50, fairly intelligent and not bad looking. I lost my husband unexpectedly a year ago, and until then I thought we had quite a few real friends. We entertained back and forth, went out dancing together, etc., and these friends rallied around me splendidly at the time of George's death. But soon they began falling away, and now they seldom telephone or drop in.

I might say that at first I didn't expect to go out, nor did I have the time, as I was working — and still am. But now that I am more adjusted to my new status I miss my friends never calling or dropping in. Several Saturday evenings I've called different ones, trying to arrange a card game, a date for the movies, or such; but I get the brush-off. I know that a widow tagging along isn't always convenient; but what am I expected to do? I am only human, and I want to go out once in a while. I am able to pay my own [illegible] but that's not the answe[illegible]ady can't go out alone.

Mary Haworth

CHURCHGOING HASN'T HELPED

I am puzzled, wondering why I've been dropped this way. I haven't constantly cried on friends' shoulders. Rather I've buried my grief, and only two of these old friends have seen me with my defenses down. So maybe the majority take it amiss that I show no grief—for George truly was one of the best. But my son, 16, and I had an agreement from the first that we wouldn't cry, and I never have, in his presence, though he knows how very lonely I've been, as he has. Don't these so-called friends ever stop to think that some day they'll be in my shoes? Don't they ever stop to think that an "evening out" might help lift grief from my shoulders?

I've tried going to church, but that's no solution. People are friendly, but still I go back to a lonely home, alone. And in my work there's not much chance to meet persons my age. So what's the answer to my problem? Please advise.—R. K.

PAYS TO RECOGNIZE NATURE OF PROBLEM

Dear R. K.: To overcome a problem, one must understand its nature, and respond intelligently to the challenge it presents. This you haven't done as yet, in respect to your desolate sense of outcast isolation in widowhood.

Instead of responding to the reality of the new situation—or new framework of experience—in which you find yourself as a widow, you are inwardly crying, and blindly striving for a continuance of the old days with George, insofar as they might be approximated again without his presence. And because he, the archstone of the remembered pattern, is gone, you feel urgently dependent upon married couples who were cronies of your way-of-life with George, to "loyally" help you cherish the illusion that his death wrought no profound changes in your life, except for his absence.

You want reassurance that George's death hasn't and won't alter the structure of your social relationships contrived with his help; and that I think is asking the impossible of life. His death automatically introduces inexorable changes in the fabric of your prior associations shared by him. Others can't avert that change, any more than you can prevent it. But a positive attitude on your part, towards the wisdom of making a new orientation to a new chapter of experience, would make a big difference for the better, in your old friends' future reactions to you, in your widowhood.

ACCEPT "WHAT IS"; RELINQUISH PAST

You should recognize the survival-value of accepting the personal responsibilities of being "alone in life," at this time, without a co-partner and protector. You should not expect—much less piteously demand, by indirection—that your friends will pinch-hit socially for the deceased helpmeet. In fraternity with George, you had a feeling and gave the impression of social competence, which made your presence attractive. And you must recover this sense of surety, and have done with doleful grabbing at crumbs of attention, in order to become a moving target of interest once more.

As of now, you are childishly self-centered and pleasure seeking—attitudes inappropriate to your age and status. And your slight reference to your son suggests enormous indifference to his needs and welfare. It is my impression that he is isolated from people too, and needs aid and encouragement in negotiating friendships that would help him emerge from morbid grieving for his father. So my advice to you is to stop mourning your lack of beaux and dates, and address yourself to the correction of past mistakes at home. —M. H.

TODAY'S RECIPE

SWEDISH BAKED SALMON

One 1-lb. can salmon, 2 tbs. flour, 2 tbs. olive oil, 2 tbs. bread crumbs, 4 medium-size raw onions, sliced; 4 medium-size raw potatoes, sliced; ½-cup milk, approximately; ¼-tsp. salt, pinch of pepper.

Shred the salmon, retaining juice. Place a layer of salmon in buttered baking dish and sprinkle with a little flour and olive oil. On this, place thinly sliced onions and on these, thinly sliced potatoes. Sprinkle seasoning. Repeat these three layers. Add to the salmon juice enough milk (approx. ½-cup) to make a liquid sufficient to cover the layers. Sprinkle with bread crumbs and dot with bits of butter. Bake slowly one hour. Serves six.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Here are three different attitudes and aspects about bed wetting which should be of interest to parents dealing with it.

Mrs. J. C. F. writes, "Since I helped only one child through this situation I am in no position to say whether my success was due to my methods or the child's physical make-up.

"I did not begin his daytime training until the 21st month and within a week there were no more accidents. At 28 months he stopped wetting at night.

"I do not agree with you (as I almost always do) that a child needs to be taken up at night. When I had to waken my children to give them medicine when they were sick it took them one to two hours to get back to sleep.

"I did not 'train' my boy, he trained himself. As his physical habits developed along the lines social customs demand, he accomplished the step himself. I think a child should be able to stay dry at night without attention."

It depends on the child, even some adults can't do that. Perhaps your children's wakefulness was related to their illness and not specifically to being disturbed. They might not have reacted that way if they had been well. It would seem to be a good rule if the child does not fight attention, or goes right back to sleep after being awakened at the parents' bedtime, that this practice does promote dry beds.

Mrs. G. S., a nurse, had a boy who wet the bed for 12 years. She protected him from humiliation and censure and would like to remind parents that thousands of young men were discharged from the army for soaking their beds. No medical treatment proved of any benefit to them.

As. Mrs. G. S. also pointed out, some children dream they are going to the toilet and then wet the bed. May I say to Mrs. G. S. that if they are constantly given excuses for doing this, there is little incentive to improve. It might be better to help them get over such a handicapping habit, than to be too eager to give them alibis for remaining as they are.

In the case of the soldiers there is no doubt a psychological angle which makes them impervious to help because consciously or unconsciously they want to be discharged from the army.

Mrs. Z. N. writes that after trying all kinds of remedies for bed-wetting their boy improved in a few weeks after his faulty vision had been corrected.

Our leaflet No. 58, "Bed Wetting," may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Donation For Camp—Mrs. M. Walker presided at a meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary to Esquimalt United Church when a donation of $15 was made to Pringle Memorial Camp Fund. An apron tea will be held in March. Devotional was taken by Mrs. F. Irwin and Mrs. J. Dennis-ton. Hostesses were Mrs. F. Dredge and Mrs. W. Halmarson.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Glands Cause Overweight? More Likely Food You Eat

If all of the feminine pounds of overweight fat which are unjustly blamed on glands were piled up they would far overshadow the Pyramids. In fact the Pyramids would look like ant hills.

Women sometimes write me that they eat much less than my reducing diets call for but haven't lost a pound. In some few, very few, instances this may be true and if you did not kid yourself and found yourself in this situation, then you should see your doctor and have a metabolism test. He will prescribe medication to take along with your diet.

However, this is seldom the case. Most often the woman who writes this is honest about starving part of the time, but has no idea of the calorie count in certain foods. They go without food or with very little of it all day and make up for it at night. Maybe they take black coffee and dry toast, no lunch, and then at mid-afternoon drink a chocolate malted milk which has as many or more calories than those included in a sensible reducing breakfast and luncheon.

Women wail, "It's my glands" or "It just runs in my family." Of course tendencies to certain builds and weights do run in families. The glandular set-up does affect your weight and you will propably never be quite as slim as someone who comes from a long lanky family tree.

However this does not mean that you can do nothing about your weight. It does mean that you will have to watch it more carefully. Remember that eating habits are passed down from mother to daughter, from mother to son. Certain families are known for certain foods just as certain countries are.

I will never forget the time when I was giving personal interviews for one of my newspapers. I had a new interview every ten minutes, at which time the secretary in the outer office would knock on the door and tell me that the time was up and introduce me to the next reader.

My next interview was with a colored woman who weighed 250 pounds. I was reared in the south and know and love the colored race. I looked at her and immediately said, "Why don't you stop eating those pork chops and hot biscuits?" She said, "Lordy, Honey, how did you know?" She thought I was a fortune teller.

I have long played the game of watching women come into a cafeteria and can tell, almost to an item, what she will select to eat, just by looking at her.

We really are what we eat.

You will be delighted with this fragrant tea

Young Artist Has A Host Of Artistic Talents But Dream Is To Teach School

"I am always happy when I am painting," says Elmay Flett, as she puts the finishing touches to a bas-relief, "The Gill Netter," which she created from its plaster background to the final bit of color. Subjects are the coast Indians.

Out near Langford there's a rustic log cabin with a cheery green roof and a casement window filled with handicrafts.

That's where Elizabeth Mary Catharine Flett—Elmay for short—spends most of her time. And the crafts displayed in the window, leather work, clay modeling, sculpture, and painting are all the work of her clever fingers.

At present she is specializing in bas-relief, making her own plaster bases, then carving scenes and figures on the bases just before they are dry. Later, when they are completely dry, she adds the colors.

Her favorite subjects are children. But recently she did a border mural for a room depicting the British Columbia scene, salmon going up stream at Goldstream, seals at Queen Charlotte Islands, and the mountains at Jasper where she lived at one time.

When it comes to the places Elmay Flett has lived in her young life it sounds like a travelogue.

She was born in Victoria but has traveled with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan M. Flett, throughout Canada, the British Isles, and in the United States.

Two years ago she attended the Art League School and the Art Schol of California, in San Francisco, where she won a scholarship in sculpturing for the California School of Fine Arts, in the same city.

Because she is not convinced in her own mind that art is her life work, she is leaving the scholarship in abeyance.

"But it is something to look forward to," she says with a wave of her expressive hands, "and someday I may take it up."

In the meantime she continues to create pictures, whether in bas-relief, water colors, or on tooled leather.

A sheet of copper will inspire her to create a picture. Or a piece of bleached cotton.

"I make cotton skirts," she tells you, "then I paint splashy figures and designs on them with fabric paints. They are different and they make bright costumes for the summer."

All this work would seem to make a very full day for Elmay Flett.

But there are a few minutes left over for her dreams. And strange to say these dreams have nothing to do with art.

For her real ambition is to be a school teacher.

"I don't want to teach art alone," she tells you emphatically, "I would like to teach general subjects."

"And I think I would prefer to teach Indian children, there is so much knowledge I could pass on to them."

The young artist explains that last year she had a taste of her dream career when she taught nine children at a kindergarten in her home at Langford.

"I wrote stories for them," she explains, her eyes sparkling with enthusiasm, "and I made up new games. And I did show them how to draw and paint."

Story writing was not new to Miss Flett, for just as she started painting at an early age, so she began composing little stories when she was five years old. As she grew up she wrote fairy tales and educational stories for children, in poetry and prose, all illustrated with her own brush.

She has also written a book dealing with rural leadership, summarizing studies taken while attending an extension course at University of British Columbia in 1947.

Spring Tones Color Foil For Bride, Flora Bootsman

Gowns in spring's own shadings of carnation pink, green and mauve were worn by the trio who preceded Saturday evening's bride, Flora Effie Bootsman, when she became the bride of George David Draper.

Baskets of spring flowers were used to decorate Salvation Army Citadel where Sr. Capt. W. Ratcliffe heard the vows spoken by daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. A. Bootsman, 4 Gorge Road, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Draper, 4032 Carey Road.

A toe-touching embroidered French net veil that cascaded from a beaded Juliet cap, misted over the bridal gown of gleaming white satin. The gown was fashioned with fitted bodice styled with rounded neckline, nylon yoke edged with lace ruching and lily point sleeves. A graceful skirt, edged with lace, was enriched with lace pannier in front and double lace panniers in the back.

A triple strand of pearls and a watch belonging to her grandmother was the bride's only jewelry. She was given in marriage by her father.

Bridal attendants, Mrs. A. Bell, matron of honor, chose a gown of nylon sheer, and Miss J. Milley, bridesmaid, wore a pink taffeta gown styled with net overskirt. Both wore single strands of pearls, chapel veils caught to Mary Stuart headdresses, and carried bouquets of pink carnations.

Petite flower girl Shirley Anne Hastings wore a frock of rustling mauve taffetta, a bandeau of flowers in her hair and carried a Colonial bouquet of narcissi and violets.

Best man was A. Bell and ushers L. W. Kiteley and R. Wilson.

While the couple signed the register Mrs. C. Emerson, aunt of the bride, sang "O Perfect Love." Mrs. M. Chalk played traditional wedding music.

Mothers of the newlyweds assisted the couple in receiving guests at a reception held at Strathcona Hotel. A three-tier cake centred the bride's table set with bowls of spring flowers. A. Hyde proposed the toast.

A navy blue crepe dress with contrasting wine-toned accessories and navy gabardine topcoat were chosen by the bride for the honeymoon trip to the mainland. Her corsage bouquet was a single white orchid.

Robert Young Also Observes 20th Year As Film Star

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—Close-ups and Longshots:

Bing Crosby isn't the only star with 20 candles on his movie anniversary cake. It's the same long count for Robert Young, who signed a contract with M-G-M two decades ago.

"Twenty years in a squirrel cage," Bob grinned. "But not as a star like Bing. When I signed with M-G-M, I was a nobody."

Bob just wrapped up "Goodbye, My Fancy," his first picture with Joan Crawford since the lush days of 1936. Whewed Bob:

"She hasn't changed a bit since then. She's just as dynamic, ambitious, persevering and sincere as she was then. What a dynamo! She burns up more energy in an hour than I can create in a whole day!"

• • •

Overheard in a drug store after the opening of "The Walls of Malapaga":

"Gosh, Myrtle, I saw a wunnerful eye-talian picture last night. Swell. Some dame named Isa Miranda. Carmen's sister, I guess. The title? Let me see. Oh, yeah, 'The Walls of Mala Powers'."

Hollywood's kidding about the producer who's so impressed by the box-office figures on "King Solomon's Mines" that he wants to film "Peter Pan" against an African background.

The big scene will come when Peter Pan turns to the audience and says:

"If you believe in safaris, clap your hands."

• • •

A re-issue but still good: Bing Crosby and his pal, Barney Dean, were guests at a party at the big New York Vanderbilt mansion. During the festivities, they made a tour of the fabulous place, inspecting the indoor swimming pool and tennis court. While looking at the complete bowling alley in the basement, another guest asked Barney if he had seen Mrs. Vanderbilt.

"I'm not positive," deadpanned Barney, "but I think she's upstairs playing polo."

HOLLYWOOD REVIEW

Defence Of Luscious Liz Comes From Larry Parks

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Now comes gallant Larry Parks to the defence of Elizabeth Taylor, selected "the most objectionable ingenue in motion pictures" by the Harvard Lampoon.

Since Luscious Liz made no rebuttal after the humor magazine's onslaught, I sought some words from Parks, who recently finished a picture with the actress. His reply:

"I suppose the selection was meant to be good and clean-college-boy fun, but I think it was in rather bad taste, particularly at this time when she is having personal troubles. Furthermore, I think their selection is incorrect.

"I had only met Liz once before we started the picture and I expected not to like her. I thought there must be something wrong with anyone that beautiful. But I must say I was agreeably surprised. I have never worked with anyone as co-operative.

GREAT TALENT

"Aside from being conscientious, she has a great talent. I am convinced of that. Will she ever win an academy award? I don't see why she couldn't, if given the right kind of material."

Parks remarked that he found other surprising things about the girl.

"I naturally expected a girl with a face like that to have piano legs," he said. "I thought she'd probably have to wear long skirts all her life. But this picture shows more of her than has been seen on the screen before, and her figure is just as perfect as her face."

The picture bears the highly-debatable title of "Love Is Better Than Ever."

French Say Movies With Nudes Less Bad Than Crime Horrors

PARIS (AP) — Movies with nudes are all right with French censors, but they won't stand for brass-knuckle crime and gangster stuff.

"We think it does less harm," said an Information Ministry official, "for children to see a nude woman than to see an efficiently-performed crime."

He recalled a recent French movie licensed for general showing despite a scene that shows the star actress stepping into a bathtub. The same picture has some bedroom and underwear scenes so warm they are practically fire hazards. The French find them cute, in an innocent sort of way.

The official mentioned another picture from which the censors insisted on cutting views of a murderer pushing the head of an unconscious victim into a gas oven.

French movie censorship is in the hands of an 18-man committee. It includes high-ranking Government officials and representatives of the industry and the public. Information Minister Albert Gazier has to make the final judgment in tough cases. His rulings are subject to discussion in Parliament and can be made a political issue.

Woman Drops Suits Against Errol Flynn

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—The Superior Court has dismissed two paternity suits against Errol Flynn because they were not prosecuted since filed seven years ago.

The suits, filed in 1943 by Mrs. Shirley Evans Hassau, asked $1,750 monthly support for a daughter born in 1940 to the then 19-year-old Miss Evans. Flynn denied paternity.

ONE FOR VICTORIA

B.C. Share Defence Orders Again Low

By HARRY YOUNG, Times Business Editor

Only five contracts valued at $56,187 have come to British Columbia firms in the seventh purchase list of the Canadian Commercial Corporation. This is out of a total of 224 contracts of a total value of $5,920,787.

The only Victoria contract is one of $7,900 to Heaney's for the removal of a building. B.C.'s biggest contract is of $25,588 to Canada Western Cordage of Vancouver for rope. Two other contracts are for lumber and one for footwear repairs.

The small percentage of orders coming to British Columbia is disappointing, and it seems that apart from other difficulties, some of the responsibility must lie with some industrialists who are not showing any particular enthusiasm.

* * *

In Victoria this week-end, to organize the new financing of one of Canada's oldest established hardware firms, was N. A. (Bert) Mitchell, of Toronto.

Mr. Mitchell tells me that two new issues in the firm of Wood Alexander Ltd. are to be made this week. These issues are 5½ per cent General Mortgage Debentures and 6 per cent cumulative preference shares, each carrying a bonus of common stock.

"Wood Alex," as the company is known, is to Ontario what Mac and Mac is to British Columbia, says Mr. Mitchell.

The original title of the firm Wood Alexander and James was cut down to its present title when the old company was bought out last December.

"The families who formed the title name when the company was formed away back in 1849 are now all dead, and Dr. Benneto of Hamilton, who had acquired the majority of the share holding felt that at the age of 76 it was time he had the old established company put on to a new footing," said Mr. Mitchell. "That is the reason for the new financing."

The company which wholesales hardware throughout Ontario carries a line of 34,000 different items, and trading figures show that the two new issues are extremely well secured.

Market popularity in the various companies in the British Columbia timber industry is not surprising in view of the big cellulose and paper pulp developments. Such firms, MacMillan's B.C. Forest Products and Canadian Western Lumber are all trading at their highest-ever prices.

Indication of the sound state of the trade is supplied by the quarterly figures of Western Plywood Ltd., which showed sale to be $1,050,000 compared with $460,000 for the corresponding quarter ending Jan. 31, 1950.

President John Bene indicated at the annual meeting that the company would be in a position to consider a higher dividend rate for the second half of the current year. He said demand continued to exceed supply, and that the output will be increased about 75 per cent by the completion of the new Quesnel plant in July.

Massey-Harris Shares Split Five For One

The shares of Massey Harris were split 5 for 1 in an announcement made by the company this morning. The new quarterly dividend rate was indicated at 12½ cents.

The market which had anticipated a split accepted the news with some disappointment, the shares falling from last week's all time top of $65½ to $60¼. There was however, a subsequent recovery as the day proceeded.

Under the split the new indicated basic dividend rate will be 50 cents, equivalent to $2.50 per year on the old stock, which last year paid $2 plus an extra dividend of $3.

The increase in basic dividend is thus 50 cents per year, with the question of further extra dividends left open.

GEORGE H. MAYCOCK

B. Of M. Names New Manager At Oak Bay

George H. Maycock, who since May, 1948, has been secretary to B. C. Gardner, president of the Bank of Montreal, has been appointed new manager of the Oak Bay branch of the Bank of Montreal.

He takes the place of Cyril D. H. Moore, who has been appointed manager of the North Vancouver branch, after serving three years at Oak Bay.

Mr. Maycock joined the Bank of Montreal in London, Eng., and gained his early training there. He came to Canada in 1937, and served with the bank in Ontario until the war when he spent six years, three of them on the west coast, with the R.C.A.F.

He was discharged after the war with the rank of Squadron Leader, and rejoined the Bank of Montreal.

When Mr. Maycock takes over his duties early next month, he will have with him his wife, the former Elaine Adam, whose father, the late James Adam, was Victoria alderman and one-time a leading soccer player. Mr. Maycock's uncle, the late Fred Dexter, was one time principal of Oak Bay High School and superintendent of schools in Oak Bay at the time of his death in 1945.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG (CP) — Grain prices moved narrowly but showed a firm undertone in dull trade.

Outside interest in the market was at a minimum due to the holiday in the United States.

Only a few routine shipper orders appeared in oats and barley, while offerings were light. Rye moved slightly higher on a few local buying orders. Hedging sales were in evidence in flax which was slightly lower.

More than 900,000 bushels of Canadian wheat were reported in overnight export loadings, with Japan taking 630,000 bushels, the United Kingdom 200,000 and Belgium 80,000.

Traders Turn Cautious On Smelters Split Talk

TORONTO (CP)—Stock splits and rumors of stock splits featured today's trading. In general the market was firm, but, with New York closed, it hesitated to strike out on its own. As a result trading concentrated on selected issues, and western oils got a good play. Prices tended to retreat in the afternoon.

The stock split rumors concentrated on Consolidated Smelters in the forenoon, sending the stock up as much as $4 to $154. Then Massey-Harris announced its five-for-one split which was apparently less than traders expected and the issue dropped back about $4.

Traders then turned a more cautious eye on Smelters and its gain was shaved down. C.P.R., which controls Smelters and had gained $2, also had its advance reduced.

Steels, manufacturing issues and papers were strong.

In addition to Smelters, Noranda was strong in base metals and the list had a majority of gains.

Western oils were active with a two-for-one margin in gains. Golds were relatively quiet. Bralorne gained 25 cents.

Breweries Move Up

VANCOUVER — Strength in Coast Breweries, up 20 cents at 4.90, and B.C. Forest Products at a new high of 8.75 was feature of erratic market movement. Powell River was also bid at a new high of 70.

Oils generally were lower, although exceptions were Atlantic at 3.10; Superior at 1.03, after trading as high as 1.08; Zodiac at a high of 1.26 and Calmont at 1.19. On the other extreme Federated was out of favor, dipping about 50 cents at the end of the forenoon session.

Hedley Mascot shed 3 cents at .72, but generally the mining tone was sound. Base Metals added 1½ to touch .69, and on new high ground were Highland Belle at 1.10; Premier Border at .15 and Western Uranium which went to 1.87 before moving back to 1.85.

Silvan moved ahead to .74 and Britalta to 1.15 among unlisted.

Profits Taken

MONTREAL (CP) — Profit-taking hit a moderately higher industrial list after the noon hour today, but securities maintained a better part of the day's gains near the close.

Gains outnumbered losses around two to one and ranged from small fractions to more than two points in some cases. The few weak spots showed losses ranging from two to six points.

Massey - Harris dropped 2⅞ points to 61⅛, in the midst of a small list of fractional declines in the industrial section.

Among a predominating list of gainers was C.P.R. up for a net gain of two points after rising 2¼ to a new high of 32¼.

Howard Smith fell two points to 87 in the papers, but most of Lakes Paper added two points for a new high of 38.

In a strong senior metal list, Consolidated Smelters retained 2¼ points of its four-point advance to a new high of 154.

Mines and western oils moved in an irregular price path and trading in these issues was comparatively quiet.

Jap Bonds Favored

LONDON (Reuter) — British government stocks were fractionally lower but industrials showed firmness with shipbuilding shares higher on the news of a £21,000,000 order for new oil tankers. Steel shares were steady.

Feature of the foreign market was the strength of Japanese bonds. Gains of up to seven points followed the latest peace treaty moves and higher Wall Street advices.

Oils were better where changed and there was firmness in tins and rubbers. Kaffir developers improved in early trading but coppers were neglected and occasionally easier.

ALBERTA OIL REPORT

Week's Production Is Well Below Allowable

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES

CALGARY—Crude oil production in Alberta for the week ended February 5 was a slight increase over the production for the previous week, but far below the daily average Conservation Board allowable of 97,000 barrels.

Production for the week amounted to a daily average of 74,960 barrels, as against 73,734 barrels for the week ended January 29.

Redwater was again the leading producer with a daily average of 34,079 barrels daily as against 33,066 for the previous week. Leduc increased its production from 23,490 barrels per day to 24,082.

NEW OIL COMPANY

Cedar Oils Limited, recently formed Alberta independent, has announced plans for its first two drilling ventures.

The company plans to start drilling operation before March 6 on Cedar North Stettler No. 1, six miles north of the Stettler Field, to be followed by a venture about two miles southeast of Naco's cretaceous discoveries in the Drumheller area. The second venture will be Cedar Gouge No. 1, and is scheduled to be spudded before May 1.

Cedar Oils, a new entry into the oil picture, has an authorized capital of 4,000,000 shares, of which 500,000 are being sold. President is Murdo C. McLeod, treasurer, Howard C. Karels of Calgary, and secretary, Craig Wilson of Drumheller.

Richfield Leduc No. 1, two miles south of the southeast corner of the Leduc field, has completed drilling operations at 5,454 feet, after opening 20 feet of pay in the D-2 zone.

Second drillstem test at the well, between 5,443 and 5,454 feet, resulted in a recovery of 350 feet of clean oil with a bottom hole pressure of 1,800 pounds.

Production pipe will be run and storage tanks are scheduled to be installed by tomorrow. As soon as production casing has been set, the rig will be moved a quarter mile northeast and drilling operations will start immediately on Richfield Leduc No. 2, a northeast offset to No. 1 and a south offset to Trans Empire No. 1, now swabbing into production from the D-2.

IN TUNE WITH THE TIMES

NEWS OF THE WORLD

by Tommie Walters

From day to day we receive bits and pieces, gossip and what-have-you, concerning our radio personalities. A great deal we pass off with a slight shrug. So what! But every so often we find a little bit buried deep in the publicity some press agent or other is trying to put over for a certain star. When that happens we're inclined to forget the subject matter and talk about a "Right Guy" or a "Right Gal."

* * *

Edgar Bergen rates our Times' Chimes for this week. Success hasn't affected his cranium, and his hat still fits him—even with a wig under it. Recently, Edgar set up his 12th scholarship for deserving students at his alma mater, Northwestern University, at Evanston, Illinois. Edgar himself, never quite got through university because he ran out of money. Now he's in the chips, and he hasn't forgotten those days.

* * *

About the only person who might quarrel with Bergen's "extravagance" is Charlie. His 75 cents-per-week allowance hasn't been increased, and no doubt the little fugitive-from-a-match-factory will have plenty to say about THAT matter.

* * *

Incidentally, did you know that Ted Rush, of Vancouver and Toronto, once gave lessons to Bergen?

* * *

Both Edgar and Charlie can speak Swedish fluently. "But Charlie's a bit better at it than I," concedes the ventriloquist. "Maybe that's because he learned it so young."

* * *

Cynthia Wilmot, who was for a time, radio critic on the now defunct Winnipeg Citizen, has written a tender little story, suitable for radio, with a Vancouver slum area as background. Titled "Big Morning," it concerns a young boy going to sea for the first time, and his discovery that youth was nothing to be afraid of. "Fear was a secret to be shared, and through sharing, defeated." Mrs. Wilmot was born in Stratford, Ontario, but has lived in the west most of her life.

Cowboy star, Gene Autry, has recorded 433 musical numbers in the past 20 years, and sales have topped the 25,000,000 mark.

* * *

A fine evening's entertainment is in store for you tonight starting with tenor Lauritz Melchior appearing as guest soloist on the "Voice of Firestone," with a well balanced program of simple songs, concert numbers and an operatic aria, 5.30 on KOMO. At 7 there is the "Boston Pops" with Arthur Fiedler conducting over the same station. Then "Police Blotter" with ex-deputy commissioner Cecil Clark (B.C. Police) with another of his B.C. crime narratives entitled "Leon the Moneymaker" on CBR at 7.45; followed by the "Railroad Hour" at 8.30 and the "Telephone Hour" at 9, both over KOMO. Then our sports fans can catch up on the commercial hockey doings at Memorial Arena on CKDA at 9.05.

* * *

We should remind you also, that Vivian Della Chiesa, opera and concert soprano co-stars with Gordon McRae in Emmerich Kalman's "Sari" during the "Railroad Hour." This should probably be the highlight of your evening's entertainment.

Radio times and programs are furnished by stations and networks and are subject to last minute changes. The Times assumes no responsibility for inaccurate listings.

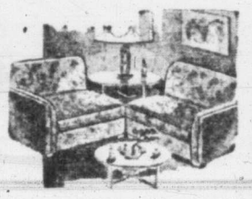
"Dinah" From Regina

"I want to furnish two rooms, I was recommended to you, so show me," said this man, 'just what you can do." 'Yes, Sir," we beamed, & so waltzed him around. "Well, Im glad," he smiled, you fellows I found. I like that suite, & its neutral shade."



"It's a frieze," we chirped, "of a better grade. And the ticket is right for that pretty beige, it was bought before . . . the latest price raise." "O.K.," he laughed, "I can see it's not phony, let's see some beds, & skip the baloney." So up we joked to another floor, no escalators in our warehouse store. He looked 'em all over, & gally did chat, & kept telling me jokes . . . punchy . . . not flat. Then years between us, he cut with a knife, I felt I had known him . . . all of my life. Retired he was, grown tolerant & mellow. I put him down . . . for a regular fellow. 'Most of my life I've lived in Regina, now HOW can we show . . . this stuff to Dinah? She's out in the car, & her injury such, she's hobbling about . . . on a crutch. She's over the shock, & free from fear, but I'm sure she could NEVER . . . make it up here." "Why, that's no problem . . . chum . . . let's go we'll get her up here . . . in half-a-mo. We don't have elevators . . . we don't have swank, but we DO have fellows like Frank & Hank." I pressed their buzzer, & sed to this pair, "Our super-service fellow, go get the chair." "Yes, sir," they smiled, & darted below, as out on the street we both did go. "Look mother," to Dinah he sed, "this man has just . . . the right kind of bed. And I've chosen a chesterfield, that I'm sure you will like," she smiled & nodded . . . sort of woman-like. Just at that moment, out there on the street, Frank & Hank came out with the seat. 'Won't you," I asked, "see our top floor, these lads are strong . . . they've done it before." "Now careful," she smiled, "don't break my neck,' as she got in the chair, an arm round each neck. They hoisted the chair, kicked open the door, & whisked her safely to the top floor. Where once again, with my usual tact, I showed the stuff, went into my act. It wasn't hard, & a cinch was the closin', she just loved everything . . . that "he" had chosen. The elevator operators stood dutifully near, so down we went, with us in the rear. "Main floor," they called, & opened the gate, "compared to many . . . you're a light weight." The tables & lamps, she also approved, as around this floor she cautiously moved. "My," she remarked, "your things are so nice, & I'm simply amazed at the very low price." 'Ah, thank you, madam . . . you are very kind, we do our best, the right things to find." Our coffee shop they then did explore, she graciously consented, agreed to pour. We all sat on the stools, "hts" stories a scream, 'do you care," sed Dinah, "for lemon or cream?" I really should have mentioned before, their life-long friends with them in the store. They too, laughter were shedding, bridesmaids they were at each other's wedding. Came time to go, so this willing waiter, rang again . . . for the elevator. She was tucked in their car, we all laughed some more, as they waved good-bye outside of our store. I thot to myself, my last glimpse of Dinah, what heart-warming people there are from Regina.

Critics' Panning Closes 'Ti Coq' After 3-Day Run

NEW YORK (CP)—Gratien Gelinas' record-breaking Canadian play "Ti-Coq" closed Saturday night after three Broadway performances, a casualty of adverse notices.

"Ti-Coq," the story of a cocky little French-Canadian soldier who yearned for a family and saw his fondest dream dashed, played in French and English to 250,000 Canadians and then had a successful fortnight's run in Chicago.

But most of the New York critics, who can make or break a play, damned it with faint praise and some were a little rougher.

Gelinas wanted to keep trying for another week, but the show's financial backers were reached too late Saturday to make arrangements.

Gelinas, 40-year-old Montreal author, producer, director and "Ti-Coq's" leading actor, shrugged it off as "one of those things." The author of "Ti-Coq", plans to have a rest and then take his play on a Canadian tour.

Sports Briefs

SEATTLE (AP) — The old "split-week" pattern of the Western International League has been abandoned as a standard practice, primarily in Victoria and Vancouver, league president Robert B. Abel said today, commenting on the new 1951 schedule adopted Sunday (see sports).

Where home stands at the British Columbia cities formerly were Monday-Tuesday-Wednesday and Thursday-Friday-Saturday affairs, Victoria and Vancouver will frequently play host to teams from the U.S. in Friday-Saturday-Monday engagements this year, Abel said.

Victoria Amateur Swimming Club finished eighth in a field of 12 at the Pacific Northwest A.A.U. swimming meet in Seattle. The meet was won by Ocean Falls team. Stan Cramer of the Aero Club of Portland set a new mark of 1:06.6 in the 100-yard breaststroke. The old mark of 1:08.4 was set by Eric Jubb of Victoria in 1947.

Police Hunt Pet Poisoner

The poison pet killer is believed to be operating again in Oak Bay, municipal police reported late today.

A dog owned by Fred Hawes, 668 Falkland Road, died suddenly due to poisoning, and police are having an analysis made to determine what type of poison was used.

Strychnine was used by the person who was responsible for a number of pet deaths in the same area of Oak Bay last year.

Scolded Girl Suicide From 100-Ft. Bridge

EDMONTON, Alta. (BUP)—A mother's scolding of her daughter for something she had not done caused the youngster to make a 100-foot death leap from Edmonton's High Level bridge Sunday night, police reported today.

Eleven-year-old Patricia Murphy, described as a sensitive child, was scolded by her mother, Mrs. Dorothy Murphy, for calling neighborhood children names.

The saddened mother learned later that Patricia had not been guilty of name-calling.

B.C. Flu Cases Increase

Warning Sounded By Health Leaders

Victoria Health Officer Dr. J. L. Gayton said today—in the wake of reports that there are some 2,200 cases of influenza in British Columbia—that warning would be issued here at the first sign of any epidemic.

Provincial Health Officer Dr. G. F. Amyot states that there is no cause for alarm; all cases are mild with no complications. There have been no deaths.

He pointed out that when public interest is aroused the number of cases reported increase considerably. Ordinarily, few of the slight cases come to the attention of the authorities.

While there appeared to be a lot of persons in Penticton stricken, there was no hint of an epidemic.

Health officers feel that there is little likelihood of a repetition of world-wide devastating toll taken by influenze in 1918-19. Present-day therapy does much to prevent complications even though the disease itself must run its course once contracted.

The current epidemic in the British Isles and eastern Canada may spread a great deal further, and summer weather cannot be relied upon to bring relief. Dr. Gayton pointed out that the World War 1 outbreak continued for 18 months without any noticeable decrease due to season.

Pearson Says Risk Of War 'Very Great'

MONTREAL (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson said today that Canada's task against indirect aggression is to "labor with might and main to see that the social structure and economy of our country remains healthy."

The federal cabinet minister spoke before delegates attending the Canadian Lumbermen's Association Convention.

He warned in a solemn appraisal of the world situation that the risk of war is "now very great."

Pearson said despite the tense world situation, the Canadian government was anxious to avoid imposition of a rigid and across-the-board system of controls.

"This government," he said, "will resort to direct control of prices, wages and materials when only such controls have been proved necessary, and when they can be effective.

Meanwhile, Trade Minister C. D. Howe told the Commons at Ottawa that further curbs may have to be put on steel.

Allies' Front Split

Reds Push Big Counter Attack

TOKYO (Tuesday) (AP)—Combining 100,000 man-power with fake surrenders, white flags and handshakes, Chinese and North Korean Communists thrust a wedge seven dangerous miles deep into the Allied central Korean front Monday, isolating some American and South Korean units.

On the east coast, latest American reports said a patrol of the South Korean Capital Division, advancing northward, ran into a Red company almost on the 38th parallel and was forced back south after a fight less than a mile below the old political boundary.

Earlier South Korean official reports had credited the South Korean patrol with a five-mile penetration into North Korea. The American advisers' report early Tuesday to Eighth Army headquarters said they never crossed the line at all.

The savage Red counter-drive in the mountainous central sector was launched Sunday midnight and pushed by an estimated 60,000 troops throughout today on a 10-mile-wide front.

Meanwhile, in London, Prime Minister Attlee told Parliament today General MacArthur should refrain from sending troops across Korea's 38th Parallel until there has been "full consultation with the United Nations."

Such consultation should be held particularly "with those member states who are contributing forces to Korea," the Prime Minister said in a foreign affairs debatee in the House of Commons.

Local Authorities Alerted For 'Experts'

R.C.M.P. and municipal police throughout Vancouver Island were put on the alert today for a band of expert and daring safecrackers who early today pulled off what is believed to be their fourth "job" in the past six months.

They entered the Vancouver Island Coach Lines Depot at Port Alberni—where a little more than a month ago they stole a safe containing $2,000—and in the early morning darkness today made off with a 600-pound safe with a "considerable sum" of money in it.

Neither police nor company officials would reveal the amount of the money taken. R.C.M.P. recovered the safe several hours later. It had been blown open with nitroglycerine and thrown away.

Police have found no one who can give them any direct clues other than the fact that they believe at least three men are involved and have one or more cars, including a truck, in carrying out their robberies.

They are believed to be the same band that has been cracking safes in the Victoria area, including the safe at the Victoria Golf Club.

First train out of Vancouver will be transcontinental No. 8 at 7.30 p.m., P.S.T.

The surprise move brought adjournment of the trial for one week.

Wisconsin Child, 2, Trades Eyes For Life

LITTLE STURGEON, Wis. (AP) — Two-year-old Mary Jo May is learning to play in darkness after trading her eyes for her life.

Both eyes were removed at the Mayo Clinic, Richester, Minn.

The operation came after Mary Jo's parents became alarmed when they read a newspaper article of a little Georgia girl whose case was similar to their daughter's.

The difference was that Mary Jo had to give up her sight to save her life while Carolyn Joan Purcell of Alpharetta, Ga., did not.

In both instances physicians diagnosed the illness of the girls as retino blastoma, a malignant cancer which required that their eyes be removed to preserve life.

In both instances the parents prayed that the diagnoses were wrong.

The prayers were answered in Carolyn Joan's case: Mayo Clinic specialists disagreed with the earlier diagnosis and the eyes were spared.

No relief came for Mary Jo; her eyes were removed on Jan. 25 and brown plastic eyes fitted in their places.

She returned to her parent's farm home four miles east of this northeastern Wisconsin community during the week-end.
